North Viets Down Plane Near Hanoi

2-Man Crew Is Missing, 2nd Jet Lost

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A second U.S. warplane was shot down by Communist forces over North Viet Nam Saturday and its two-man crew is missing, U.S. military headquarters announced Sunday.

It said a U.S. F105 Thunderchief was shot down 25 miles west southwest of Hanoi. An A4 Skyhawk from the carrier Oriskany was reported lost earlier in the area of Vinh, 180 miles north of the border, but the pilot bailed out and was rescued at sea.

The losses brought to 307 the number of U.S. planes officially listed as downed over the Communist North. Headquarters said returning pilots sighted a number of surface-to-air missiles during raids west and northwest of Hanoi.

It said the raids concentrated on oil installations and communication lines in the Red River Valley and around Vinh and Thanh Hoa in North Viet Nam's southern panhandle.

The U.S. command also reported the crash of a U.S. Army Chinook helicopter in the central highlands of South Viet Nam in which two men were killed and nine injured. A spokesman said the cause of the crash, south of Pleiku, was not known.

In Operation Hastings just south of the demilitarized zone separating the two Viet Nams, the toll of North Vietnamese killed neared 600.

U.S. Marines slain 595 North Vietnamese report since fighting erupted July 15, an increase of 13 over the toll announced Saturday night.

Nearer Saigon, a U.S. Navy river patrol boat engaged a 30-foot sampan in a river 40 miles south of the capital Saturday night and killed the eight Viet Cong aboard the sampan.

On the ground, a sudden rain of Communist mortar shells Saturday night wounded 22 U.S. Marines and damaged 16 helicopters and light observation planes at a U.S. military complex east of Da Nang.

The burst of an estimated 20 to 40 rounds fell on a Marine helicopter strip and an adjoining 400-bed Navy hospital. Five of the wounded were patients and 12 others injured were hospital personnel. Most of the wounded were described as only slightly hurt by flying fragments.

The hospital, a Seabee compound and Marine helicopter make up the complex 380 miles northeast of Saigon.

Among developments in the ground war: Several battalions of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division pushed by helicopter on entrenched Viet Cong in jungles 25 miles north of Saigon and overran their bunkers in a fight that carried on into dusk. A spokesman described the operation as fast and furious. He said American casualties were light in the opening stages. He had no word on Communist losses but reported the infantrymen had captured quantities of machine guns and ammunition.

U.S. Marines, now holding nine prisoners from Operation Hastings, quoted one as having said an infiltration trail big enough for a truck and well covered with a thick jungle canopy extended across the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam. This is a six-mile-wide strip, blanketing the border, supposed to be free of military activity under the Geneva agreement of 1954.

Associated Press correspondent George Esper, covering Marine efforts to wipe out North Viet Nam's 324th Division in that frontier sector, reported Marine jets blasted at the jungle over a suspected terminal of the trail 500 yards south of the demilitarized zone.

"We're trying to open up the canopy," a Marine officer said, "so we can look around."

American officers have expressed belief the 324th, an elite force originally estimated at 8,000 to 10,000 men, had crossed via the zone rather than take the customary longer route through Communist-held eastern Laos. They said they believed the troops, in violation of the Geneva accords, might choose to try to get out the same way. Contact has been limited to skirmishes with small enemy units since Monday.

Early Saturday, gunfire from an automobile carrying four Negroes wounded two white men standing on a street corner. Scattered incidents erupted as whites and Negroes clashed.

About 1,700 policemen patrolled the racially seething East New York slum area Friday night. Several officers were hurt and 15 persons were arrested.

After the meeting with community representatives, including about a dozen youths, Lindsay announced: "It's been agreed by everyone here to make every effort for peace, to cool it off, to calm it."

Lindsay had called them to City Hall for a frank discussion of the problems in the area, which he said "has a history of neglect."

The community is troubled by change, he said, resulting in mistrust and tension.

"Mainly I think there is a fear that exists," Lindsay said. "Everybody recognizes there is so much to do. What's needed is a massive rebuilding of this great city."

7 Miners Killed In Explosion

MOUNT HOPE, W. Va. (AP)—Seven miners were found dead in the smoldering tunnels of a coal mine here Saturday after a series of explosions shook tons of slate from the mine's ceilings and walls deep underground.

Word that all seven had perished was delivered to a crowd of about 400 persons who gathered outside the mine, hoping that a six-hour rescue effort would find some of the seven alive.

Friends and relatives of the victims broke into tears as the news was passed up to the surface that all had died.

"Oh, no! Oh, no!" cried one woman when she learned her husband was still below.

Rescuers first recovered the body of Luke Bowyer of nearby Maple Fork shortly after the 9 a.m. blast at the Silte mine of the New River Co., on the outskirts of this southern West Virginia community.

A second body was recovered at around 1 p.m., and the remaining five were found deeper underground — nearly two miles from the mine entrance — all within 700 feet of each other.

W. A. Haslen, president of the New River Co., theorized that one small explosion appeared to have triggered a series of blasts. He said the blast area apparently was centered nearly three miles from the mine entrance.

About 22 other miners were below at the time, but were evacuated safely.

Willis Cross of nearby Oak Hills was among the other miners below, but not hurt. He said he was working near the explosion area.

"We could feel it. Our ears all stopped up. We knew it was something blown up," Cross said, still shaking after reaching the surface.

Outside, despair filled the crowd as word was received that the first two bodies were found. Women holding babies wept and men in miners' caps shifted about silently.

The camel corps, which patrols the Egyptian deserts, followed up marching paratroopers and infantrymen.

Nasser, in the reviewing stand, appeared in fine humor as he watched the men and machines stream past.

Military experts said the missiles on the bombers never had been shown publicly before in this country. The public address announcer called no special attention to them, but military experts said it was clear Nasser wanted to show them off. They noted the missiles were painted bright red.

With Nasser in the grandstand were Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, deputy commander in chief of the armed forces, other top military commanders, Premier Zakaria Mohieddin, and foreign visitors, including Premier Abdel Rahman Bazzaz of Iraq and Sheriff Belcassem, Algerian political figure.

PICNIC TIME—Members of the Big Brother and Big Sister summer recreation program held a picnic last week at the recreation center on East Beecher to highlight the supervised activities. The program is co-sponsored by the YMCA. Miss Hazel Hendrick of Virginia and John T. Porter were co-directors of the summer program.

Nasser Marks Anniversary Of Overthrow

CAIRO (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser showed off everything from his famed camel corps to new Soviet-made air-to-ground missiles Saturday in a mammoth military parade marking the overthrow of King Farouk 14 years ago. The display had a markedly Soviet air.

While 300 new Soviet-supplied armored cars rumbled along with Soviet T55 tanks, new MIG21 jets and four Tupolov TU16 jet bombers winged overhead. The TU16s carried new, bright-red missiles under their wings.

Montgomery Clift Dead At Age 45

NEW YORK (AP)—Montgomery Clift, the handsome film actor who won fame for his roles of a sensitive young leader in East Side Manhattan apartment, died Saturday. He was 45.

In his private life, Clift was regarded in Hollywood as a sort of maverick, who long scorned the customs of stars but never lost his box office attraction.

During his career he played opposite some of the world's greatest actors and actresses and in 1953 won a nomination for an academy award for his support role in "From Here to Eternity."

In all the years that he made a good living out of Hollywood, Clift never lived there. He spent much of his time in New York and on board cruises and other ships he had owned.

A medical examiner said death was caused by occlusive coronary arteriosclerosis.

NORTH VIETS CLAIM DOWNING 3 PLANES

TOKYO (AP)—North Viet Nam claimed Sunday to have downed three more U.S. warplanes over its territory.

A report by Hanoi's North Viet Nam news agency — VNA — said two U.S. planes were downed Saturday and "U.S. air pirates" were captured in the western suburbs of Hanoi and Ha Tay province.

A later report claimed another U.S. plane was knocked down in Quang Binh province. The report said this makes 1,248 U.S. planes downed over the Communist North.

There was even talk both inside and outside government — especially in the first three months of the year — of the boom getting out of hand and the possible need for a tax increase to dampen inflation.

Slowing Down

But most of the talk in favor of an increase was outside government, and the Johnson administration adopted a wait-and-see position. Economic growth slowed during the second quarter of the year to what officials consider a more sustained pace.

But talk of inflation and the need for more restraint persisted. Some economists said the administration had waited too long and inflation had engulfed the country.

President Johnson, as recently as last week, held open the possibility of a tax increase. But the emphasis now is on the increasing cost of the Viet Nam war and increased congressional spending rather than on purely antinflationary purposes.

As the first half of the year ended, there were indications the boom would continue. The Commerce Department said some monthly indicators such as employment and personal income suggested that the economy had grown more rapidly in June than in either of the two preceding months.

See More Spending

And spending for new plant and equipment is expected to increase to more than $61 billion on a seasonally adjusted annual rate during the third quarter, up from the $59.6-billion rate estimated for April-June and the $58-billion rate of the first quarter.

Cleveland Violence Continues

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A Negro died Saturday from gunshot wounds in a pre-dawn shooting that fanned anew the smoldering fury of five nights of sniping and bombing on Cleveland's East Side.

His death — the fourth in the six days of unrest — came as President Johnson warned in Indianapolis that riots breed tyranny and would boomerang against those starting them.

The Negro was Benoris Toney, 29, father of five children. He had been struck in the face and his eyes destroyed by the shotgun blast from a pe-sing car loaded with white youths.

Toney died 11 hours later in a hospital.

Six whites were arrested minutes after the shooting in a lumberyard parking lot about 3 a.m. The shotgun charge had smashed through the passenger side window of Toney's car. He apparently had been trying to get away from a pursuing car.

The shooting followed a relatively quiet night in the strife-torn area, where police and National Guardsmen had toughened security.

The shooting was two miles from the seething Hough — pronounced Huff — area, the hotbed of the rioting. Police, reinforced by 1,750 Guardsmen, had sealed off the area, but despite that sporadic sniping and disorder crept nearer white ethnic pockets.

Police had 400 patrolmen in squad cars and on foot in the riot area, and 1,000 Guardsmen with bayonets fixed backed them up.

Johnson Claims Tide Of Battle Has Been Turned

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP)—President Johnson watched a realistic demonstration Saturday of how the war is being fought in Viet Nam, then told troops of the fighting 101st Airborne "Screaming Eagles" Division that American fighting men "have turned the tide of battle."

"The initiative is now with us—not with the enemies of freedom," the chief executive said.

Johnson, after watching a demonstration of how helicopters come to the aid of hard-pressed friendly forces, stood up in a jeep and reviewed some 5,000 of the 101st Division's troops.

As he reviewed the troops, the band struck up "The Tennessee Waltz."

Rain was falling as Johnson arrived at Ft. Campbell after speeches in Indianapolis, Ind., but he stood hatless and without a raincoat as helicopters demonstrated how they operate under war conditions.

He donned a hat and a plastic raincoat for his inspection of the troops.

In his speeches in Indianapolis, Johnson defended his policies in Viet Nam and told Negroes they are hurting their own cause by violence in the streets in major cities.

Johnson also called anew for "restraint and responsibility" by both business and labor to ward off increased inflation.

The President also inspected a battle-equipped helicopter. Viet Cong weapons captured by troops of the 101st, presented decorations to veterans of the Viet Nam war, and chatted informally with wounded veterans of the war.

Military authorities estimated 45,000 persons were on hand to see Johnson, his wife and daughter Luci at Ft. Campbell. Johnson told the troops he was here "as the commander in chief of the best military force our nation has ever placed in the field of battle."

He said that while the nation's military forces make "conquest impossible for the Communist forces in the field, our diplomats are probing for a way to make an honorable peace seem desirable to the Communist leaders in Hanoi."

From Ft. Campbell, the President flew to Lawrenceville, Ill., and then motored to Vincennes, Ind.

Both Lawrenceville, and Vincennes, turned out in force to welcome Johnson.

Mayor Charles L. Hedde said the crowd there was the largest Lawrenceville had ever seen.

On his trip from Ft. Campbell, Johnson shifted from his big jet transport to a two-engine turboprop Convair, because the Lawrenceville field was inadequate to handle the big jet.

In a brief speech at the Lawrenceville airport, Johnson got in a strong plug for Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., who faces a tough reelection fight this year. His Republican opponent is Charles Percy.

Johnson called Douglas "a tower of strength to us," and said Douglas is "a man who carries on in the tradition of Abraham Lincoln—that all men are free and equal and live together as brothers."

From the airport, Johnson motored nine miles to the George Rogers Clark Memorial, which he made a national historical park by signing legislation sponsored by the Democratic representative from this district, Winfield K. Denton. Johnson also got in a plug for Denton by telling the crowd, "as a rule Win Denton gets action on what he recommends in Washington, and this is no exception."

A consensus among local crowd estimators put the Vincennes crowd at between 18,000 and 20,000, unusually large for a city of about 25,000.

By way of emphasizing it, Johnson brought with him from Washington a congressional delegation from the area, which included Republicans as well as Democrats. Among them were Kentucky's Republican senators, Thurston B. Morton and John Sherman Cooper.

The President made three speeches at Indianapolis, addressing the Asian policies and speaking out against street violence.

"Our country can abide civil protests," he said. "It can improve the lives of those who mount that protest, but it cannot abide civil violence."

Between 25 and 30 persons protesting against Johnson's course in Viet Nam were bundled into a sheriff's bus after Johnson left the Indianapolis Monument Circle. A sheriff's deputy said they might be detained overnight on a charge of breaking up a public meeting.

One of the demonstrators carried a sign, "War on poverty, not on people."

One of those herded onto the bus was James Dinsmoor, an Indiana University professor who ran unsuccessfully for Congress this spring. Police Capt. Charles Sherman said Dinsmoor was charged with interfering with police. Bond was set at $100.

137 Children In Pike Co. Head Start Program

PITTSFIELD — School is a happier, more exciting place in Pike county this summer as 137 four and five year olds are enrolled in Project Head Start.

One director, nine teachers, nurses, two secretaries, social aides, the cooperation of Pike county doctors and dentists, volunteers, and interested parents have combined to make this program an important and rewarding experience.

A local organization of young mothers, the Pittsfield Junior Parents, cared enough to spend hours organizing and establishing Head Start. (This is unique as Pike county has the only Head Start Project sponsored by a local organization in this section of the United States.)

The centers are located at Hull, Barry, New Canton, Griggsville, Pleasant Hill, Pearl and Pittsfield. Here, the children have never done things such as using materials, listening to stories, learning to distinguish colors, sizes, shapes, textures, learning songs and rhythms, finding out why and how and when things happen. They are making things, doing things, learning things.

Friendly hands are extended every day to these 137 children giving each one a head start in his life socially, mentally, and physically.

Many Red Bud
Trees Dying
From Drouth

JERSEYVILLE — Red bud trees are dying in densely wooded areas, according to observers of the effects of the current drouth in this section of Illinois. The number of red buds succumbing to the current drouth equals that of all other combined varieties reports indicate.

There was some loss among red buds last season, and that was attributed to a form of disease or blight very similar in its power to kill as that of the Dutch Elm disease among the elms.

In the case of the elms, the virus of the elm disease quickly destroys what is a fully leafed green specimen and changes it into a nearly leafless, naked tree within a week or ten days. Just now, some red buds are reacting in much the same manner to what is presumed to be drouth conditions or to a form of virus particularly deadly to the red bud species. Some observers are inclined to believe the red buds may be falling before a combination of both drouth and virus attack. The same observers of woodland growth report that the wild cherries are also dying in numbers almost comparable to the red buds in some localities.

Watt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Watt of Murrayville. Judges of the contest were Mrs. Sandra Campbell of Springfield, Mrs. Marjorie Conrad of Winchester, Don Melton of Pittsfield, Richard Boudreau of Jacksonville, and Warren Breeding of Winchester. Mrs. Loretta Glossop of Winchester coached the contestants and Mrs. Helen Watt was the hostess. Sam Herring and Gary Lee were escorts and Dana Watt was crownbearer.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week had to contend with an unusually large array of unsettling news and the result was the worst weekly decline since the middle of May when the market was sinking to its 1966 lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks retreated to a new low for the year as the week ended, taking a weekly loss of 7.2 at 313.6.

The Dow Jones industrial average declined 20.21 to 860.15, but this still was above its May

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — Prices maintained a generally steady to higher trend in the butcher hog market last week with best prices up 90 cents a hundredweight on Friday over Monday's peak. They closed 75 cents to $1 higher.

The supply of 18,000 head for the period was 1,500 under its previous week.

The $26.50 top on Friday, highest since June 28, compared with $25.50 a week earlier. The average price was estimated at $25.15 compared with $24.79 the previous week and $24.39 a year ago.

Slaughter steer prices were steady to 50 cents higher than a week earlier at the close of trading. Cattle offerings on the 12 major markets amounted to 186,600 head compared with 194,900 the previous week.

The average price was estimated at $25.25 a hundredweight, up from $24.94 the previous week. A year ago it was $26.54. The market for spring slaughter lambs was mostly steady.

17 low of 864.14.

A parade of second quarter earnings was most impressive, but Federal Reserve Board member Andrew F. Brimmer was being quoted in the financial press as recommending removal of the 7 per cent tax credit on capital investment, and this did the Blue Chips no good.

The market decline was steep Wednesday as prices reacted to Britain's new austerity program designed to bolster British industry and save the pound sterling from devaluation.

Late Friday, came the news from Washington that the House Interior Committee had approved a bill for a $50 million annual subsidy for domestic gold miners. To speculators, this looked like their long looked for gold price increase in disguise. Gold mining stocks, domestic and foreign, as well as some on-gold mining issues — rallied strongly.

Weekly volume was 29,309,910 shares compared with 29,012,198 the previous week. Of 1,551 issues traded, 1,040 fell and 355 rose.

Advances in governments placed the average level of that market about 1/2 point above recent 1966 lows.

Murrayville

MURRAYVILLE — Recent overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sunderland and Donna were Mr. and Mrs. James Osborne and family of Pequanock, N. J. Other callers in the evening were Mrs. Lennie Rea, Mr. and Mrs. William Fanning and Cherri and Kathy Warcup of Jacksonville.

Mrs. Ralph Reid returned home Wednesday from Passavant hospital where she had been a surgical patient.

Mrs. Alan Heaton and infant daughter, Carmen Rea, have returned home from Passavant hospital.

Cleveland

The Guard refused to say whether it would move more troops into the area, but 400 Guardsmen were returned a day early from summer training at Camp Grayling, Mich., and held in readiness at a nearby Cleveland armory over the weekend. A spokesman said they could be mobilized for riot duty if needed.

Mayor Ralph S. Locher said Saturday the situation in the trouble spots "was materially improved last night" and he had no immediate plan to ask for additional guard troops. Looking ahead to the cleanup job in the riot area, the mayor estimated it would cost up to $200,000 for labor and equipment.

An estimated 150 Negroes have lost jobs at stores that have been burned and looted. Lawrence L. Evert said. Evert, director of the 65-member businessmen's Interracial Committee on community affairs, said a job-application center would open Monday in the Hough area for those who lost employment because of the rioting.

Following the same day-to-day pattern, Hough resumed its normal daylight position Saturday. Most stores, except those burned or wrecked, were open, including beauty shops.

But that has been the way it has gone. By daytime, the 60,000 residents appear to struggle back to normalcy. But when darkness falls, most of Hough's residents disappear behind locked doors and hope the guerrilla warfare doesn't bring the fire bombs.

The violence has left nearly 50 injured and heavy property damage, in addition to the fatal shooting of three Negroes. Until midnight the area had been encouragingly quiet. But in the early hours Saturday the torch was put to six vacant houses.

Police and Guardsmen enforced firmly the 9 p.m. curfew for youths under 16. And anyone else on the street had to prove what he was doing there. And, for the first time since the troops were moved in Tuesday, they were jeered. As the heat mounted, their commander, Col. Robert Canterbury, renewed his promise his troops would shoot only in self-defense.

HELD ON ROBBERY CHARGE
CHICAGO (AP)—Lester Carl Fuller, 38, arrested Friday in connection with a Kentucky bank robbery, was ordered held on $25,000 bond Saturday pending the arrival of an out-of-state warrant.

Fuller has been charged with robbing the Moorefield, Ky., branch of the First National Bank of Carlisle, July 6. FBI agents arrested Fuller at a motel in Wilmington, Ill.

SWIM TIME—Thirty-five members of the Big Brothers Association were on hand Saturday to test the waters at Sandy Beach. The group chartered a bus for the outing on the shore of Lake Jacksonville.

Solons: Riots Hurting Rights Bills' Chances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rioting in New York, Cleveland, Chicago and other cities is undermining support for civil rights legislation in Congress, sponsors agree privately.

Although they are reluctant to comment publicly on the matter, influential senators feel that the rioting has hurt the chances of the civil rights bill. They feel the bill offers big city Negroes few solutions to their problems.

He said a provision of the bill banning racial discrimination in the sale and rental of housing — with some exceptions — "won't build any new housing that they need." Dirksen opposes that section of the measure.

Although President Johnson has urged citizens to refrain from violence and has pledged to do everything in his power to alleviate "evil conditions" in the cities, some members of Congress think he ought to do more.

MANNED SPACE CENTER
Houston, Tex. (AP) — Technicians Saturday processed over 800 feet of movies and 360 still photographs taken by the Gemini 10 astronauts during three historic days aloft but failed to find any pictures of Michael Collins' walk in space.

Command pilot John W. Young had said he should have gotten "some great pictures" because he aimed a 16-mm color movie camera directly at Collins as he strolled for about half an hour Wednesday.

But National Aeronautics and Space Administration film coordinator Les Gavier said Saturday that for some unexplained reason not a single frame of the walk could be found. Several feet turned out blank, he added.

"We told John about it," Gavier said, "and he's as amazed as we are."

Navy Cmdr. Young and Air Force Maj. Collins splashed back to earth Thursday after a record flight that included chases after two separate Agena rockets in the world's first dual rendezvous in orbit. They flew to Cape Kennedy, Fla., Friday to tell officials of their flight.

Gavier said Collins and Young had brought back "360 excellent stills, beautiful 70-mm color," plus the movies that showed general views of earth and clouds, and the rendezvous and linkup with an Agena rocket. Some of the pictures were released to newsmen at the Manned Space Center.

Gavier noted that Young and Collins had two photographic problem areas. One of the two movie cameras on board did not work — the one that would have been mounted by Collins on top of the spacecraft as he left to go outside. And Collins lost a 70-mm still camera he had used for several pictures during the walk.

Western Illinois Cops Colt District

By BUFORD GREEN

A heavy-hitting Western Illinois outfit captured the local Colt League District All-Star Tournament by sweeping a pair of games from Lincolnland at Nichols Park, 2-0 and 12-4, Saturday night. The winners will now advance to the Springfield Regional next weekend.

Western Illinois, made up of teams from Carthage, LaHarpe, Table Grove, Bushnell and Macomb, ponied out 43 hits in its four games during the tournament, including 16 in the final contest Saturday. Terry Housewright tossed a three-hit shutout in the opener Saturday, and got seven-hit support from his teammates. That victory put the two clubs even in the double-elimination event. Lincolnland had beaten Western Illinois Friday night. Steve Knowles came back with a six-hitter for the winners in the nightcap, as his teammates pounded out 16 hits and took good advantage of nine Lincolnland errors.

Koufax Posts 17th On 6-2 Margin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sandy Koufax scattered eight hits for his 17th victory Saturday as the Los Angeles Dodgers snapped the New York Mets' seven-game winning streak 6-2.

Koufax, who has lost five games, had to struggle even though the Dodgers staged him to five runs in the first three innings. Maury Wills drove Met starter and loser Bob Shaw, 7-9, from the mound with a two-run single in the second inning.

Koufax walked five, struck out seven and threw the unusually high total of 168 pitches. Singles by Jim Barberi and Wills, a sacrifice fly by Willie Davis and a wild pitch by Shaw gave the Dodgers two runs in the first inning.

Wills' two-run single in the second inning followed a single by John Kennedy and a double by Nate Oliver. In the third, Lou Johnson singled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Oliver.

Koufax lost a shutout in the second inning when Ron Swoboda and Larry Elliot hit singles and Jerry Grote lofted a sacrifice fly.

MILWAUKEE CUTTER LEADS YACHT RACE

CHICAGO (AP) — Overall defending champion Blitzen, 56-foot cutter out of Milwaukee, broke well ahead in the start of the top class in the 55th Chicago to Mackinac yacht race Saturday.

Blitzen, owned by Tom and Bill Schoendorf, and two other Milwaukee-owned boats, Gypsy and Tanya II, swapped across the starting line first in that order among the 13 craft in the Class A division.

Easterly winds up to 12 miles an hour prevailed as the record fleet of 159 got underway in one of the world's longest fresh water races, a 333-mile sail the length of Lake Michigan.

The race, based on time handicaps, includes six different classes. In Class B, a group of 30 craft was led across the starting line by Gale, one of the highly-regarded new Cal 40 craft, skippered by Chicago's Harry G. Nye, twice a winner in World Star Class competition. The Cal 40 boat, is a 40-foot sailer built of fiberglass, and nine of them sailed in the Class B division.

NO CHANCE: Lincolnland catcher Chuck Vincent waits for the throw that came too late at the plate as Western Illinois' Jerry Derks slides safely across with one of the two runs as Western Illinois captured a 2-0 victory in the local Colt District tournament Saturday night at Nichols Park.

PICKING UP: Lincolnland second baseman John Jackson picks his feet up to avoid the slide of an unidentified Western Illinois runner on a force play at second in the first game of Saturday's doubleheader at Nichols Park. Western Illinois captured both games, 2-0 and 12-4, to claim the District title.

Streaking Orioles Notch 7th In Row 5-4

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles got home runs from Frank Robinson and Sam Bowens, but they needed a run-scoring single by Paul Blair in the eighth inning for a 5-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday night.

The victory, their seventh straight, increased the Orioles' American League lead to 12 1/2 games.

Eighth-inning singles by Bowens, Bob Johnson and Blair increased the Orioles' lead to 5-2, but the run proved decisive when the White Sox struck for two runs in the ninth on a single by Bill Skowron and Jerry Adair's homer.

Bill Short had blanked the White Sox until the eighth when they scored two unearned runs with the help of Dave Johnson's error.

Bowens homered with none on in the fourth, and Robinson connected in the fifth after Short singled and Boog Powell walked.

The homer for Robinson was his 28th of the season and his sixth in the last six games. During that stretch Robinson has collected 14 hits in 23 at-bats for a .609 average.

Jacksonville City Power entertains Florence in a Little Eight League doubleheader at Nichols Park this afternoon, beginning at 1:30. Both games will be seven innings.

City Power, now 4-3 in the league after splitting with Decatur last Sunday, will be trying to sweep a pair and move up on at least one of the two clubs tied for the league lead.

Riverton and Springfield, leading the pack with 6-1 marks, meet head-on at Springfield this afternoon, while Decatur is at Taylorville in the other twin-bill on today's schedule.

George Kording will start the first game today after twirling a five-hitter in last week's second game against Decatur. Rich Coble will throw the second contest. Jim O'Donnell and Ray Schumann are expected to start for Florence, 0-7 in the loop.

Computer Picks Bonus Boy In Hambletonian

DUQUION, Ill. (AP) — Bonus Boy, owned by Morris and Mary Gastwirth of New Hope, Pa., and driven by Del Camerona, has been picked by computer to win the $125,000 Hambletonian Aug. 31.

Dennis Nolan, head of the data processing department of the U. S. Trotting Association in Columbus, Ohio, fed pertinent data regarding the 77 three-year-old trotters eligible for the big race into the mechanical brain.

Last year as a 2-year-old Bonus Boy finished in the money in 12 of his 20 starts and this season has won 5 of his first 7, finishing second twice. In winning the $17,800 Saratoga Stake, the brown gelded son of Florican and Florikash streaked the mile in 2:01 4-5, fastest ever for a 3-year-old trotting gelding on a half-mile track.

The Hambletonian starting field is expected to be between 12 and 18 horses.

Other top computer choices were Kerry Way from the Gainesway Farm, Lexington, Ky.; Governor Armbror, from the stable of the Armstrong Bros., Brampton, Ont.; Carlisle, owned by the partnership of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Loyds of Great Neck, N. Y.; Mary Lib Miller, Meadowslands, Pa., and Mrs. Max Hempt of Mechanicsburg, Pa., and the New York representative, Polaris, owned by Pat di Gennaro of Scottsville and Anthony LeCesse of Rochester.

Bunning, Phils Blank Giants 8-0

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tony Taylor drove in four runs and Cookie Rojas knocked in three as Philadelphia whipped San Francisco 8-0 Saturday behind the three-hit pitching of Jim Bunning.

Bunning allowed only singles by pitcher Bob Bolin in the third inning, Willie Mays in the seventh and Hal Lanier in the eighth en route to his 10th victory — first since June 28 — against seven defeats.

Rojas hit two homers while Taylor collected a homer and a double.

Rojas got the Phillies off to a 1-0 lead in the first inning with his first homer off Bolin. He connected off Bolin again in the fifth after John Briggs singled.

Taylor hit his homer in the fourth following Bill White's single and a walk to Clay Dalrymple.

The Phillies closed out their scoring with two runs in the eighth. Taylor drove in one run with a double and scored the other on Bunning's sacrifice fly.

Senators Break Loss Skein With 8-1 Edge Over KC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ken McMullen's three-run double topped a five-run fourth inning and helped the Washington Senators snap a five-game losing streak Saturday as they defeated Kansas City 8-1.

Barry Moore, recalled from York of the Eastern League, scored his first major league victory on a three hitter.

Danny Cater's second homer in two games broke up Moore's shutout in the fourth inning.

The Senators scored two in the second off loser Bill Stafford on Ed Brinkman's triple following singles by Dick Phillips and Paul Casanova.

The Athletics contributed four errors to the Senators' big inning in which all but one of the runs were unearned.

LAKE BLUFF, Ill. (AP) — The gal who used to dominate the event, Jane Peaches Bartkowicz, has outgrown it, so the National Girls 16-and-under tennis tournament starting Monday is now a free-for-all.

Prime favorites are Linda Tuero of Metairie, La.; Kristy Pigeon of Danville, Calif.; Mim Ranyo of Little Rock, Ark.; Connie Capozzi of Middletown Ohio and Pat Montana of Mexico.

Southern California has a strong 16-girl entry headed by Betty Ann Grubb, Pam Teagarden, Debbie Pruitt, Stephanie Grant and Janet Mohr.

Gibson, sidelined for two weeks with a strained elbow, outdueled veteran Robin Roberts, who gave up five hits in the eighth innings he worked.

Phil Gagliano singled in the eighth, was bunted to second and went to third on Dal Maxvill's long fly to center. Gibson then drove him in.

Ford's Throwing Error Spells 7-6 Loss By Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — A two-base throwing error by Whitey Ford in the eighth inning gave California a 7-6 victory over New York Saturday despite a grand-slam home run by Mickey Mantle.

After Rick Reichardt singled to lead off the eighth, Willie Smith bunted and Ford, the third Yankee pitcher, threw hurriedly to first. Nobody was covering for the Yanks and the ball went into right field as Reichardt scored.

Mantle's homer, his 19th of the season and ninth career grand-slam, came off Angel starter Marcelino Lopez in the third inning after Clete Boyer walked. Al Downing singled and Bobby Richardson reached first on a bunt.

Tom Tresh also homered in the inning, scoring behind Elston Howard who singled, putting the Yanks ahead 6-3.

California opened the scoring in the first inning with two runs on doubles by Cardenal, Tom Satriano and Jim Fregosi. Knoop added another with his 12th homer in the second.

Whitfield Homer Carries Indians To 6-4 Verdict

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fred Whitfield slammed a two-run homer in the seventh inning, bringing Cleveland a 6-5 victory over Detroit and ending the Indians' four-game losing streak.

Whitfield's blow, off reliever Hank Aguirre, followed Ray Oyler's error on Chuck Hinton's grounder and wiped out Detroit's 5-4 lead.

The Tigers, aided by a throwing error by Larry Brown, jumped off to a four-run lead in the first inning. Norm Cash's double drove in the first run, Mickey Stanley's grounder with the bases loaded scored another, and when Brown threw toward first trying to make it a double play, the ball bounced into the stands, Willie Horton and Cash raced home.

Cleveland starter John O'Donoghue, surviving the rough start, blanked the Tigers over the next four innings while his mates were narrowing the gap. Detroit 410 000 000—5 8 1

Virginia Legion Splits In Tourney

MOLINE — The Virginia American Legion baseball team captured a 4-2 verdict in its second game after Don Kording lost despite a no-hitter in the first contest, in the Division 5 Legion Tournament, held here, Saturday.

Virginia will now meet Moline at 12:30 today, in the double elimination affair. The winner will meet Magnolia at 3:30 for the championship.

Kording, a 17-year-old lefty, tossed no-hit ball for nine innings before Magnolia scored an unearned run in the ninth for the 1-0 decision. Kording fanned 12 batters in the game.

Virginia managed only three singles off Magnolia's Dick Fay, who whiffed nine batters.

Magnolia scored in the ninth on a walk, a stolen base and a bad throw after a ground ball to the third baseman.

Cal Forman went all the way in the 4-2 victory over Lewis in Virginia's second contest. Virginia came from behind with two runs in the fifth when Dale Edge singled, Delbert Force tripled and Magnolia's Steve Graves pushed across what proved to be the winning run.

In other action, Moline downed Lewistown, 4-0 and Magnolia whipped Moline, 3-1.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Lean and hungry Al Geiberger, avoiding bogeys as if they were a plague, grabbed a four-shot lead over dark-horse Dudley Wysong Saturday as the years finally took their toll of Sam Snead in the third round of the Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Riffing his irons like a siege gun, the 6-foot-2½ inch Geiberger fired a two-under-par 68 over Firestone's scorched acres for a 54-hole score of 208.

This sent him spinning past the 54-year-old sentimental favorite, Snead, co-leader and leader through the first two rounds, and four big blows in front of the 27-year-old Wysong, a pro of three years playing in his first PGA, who shot the best round of the tournament — a 66 for 212.

The aging Snead, whose play through the first two days as a wounded and thrilled golfing million, held on gamely until he reached the 625-yard 18th hole.

There he cut his third shot approach to the green a bit to thin and the ball hit into the fronting pond, about a yard short of fair territory. He took a penalty stroke for a double bogey seven, finishing with a 75 for 214 — six strokes off the pace.

GAYLORD PERRY of the San Francisco Giants has good reason to be smiling these days. He's right up there with the pitching leaders in the National League.

Stengel, Williams Enter Hall Monday

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Casey Stengel and Ted Williams will be inducted formally into baseball's Hall of Fame Monday, an event that promises to turn this quiet, lakeside community into a monumental traffic jam.

William D. Eckert, the new commissioner, will present 75-year-old Stengel and 47-year-old Williams as the latest additions to the Hall which now has 104 members.

Stengel was elected in March by an extraordinary special ballot of the veterans' committee which waived the normal five-year waiting period after a man's retirement.

Williams, baseball's only 400-hitter in the last 25 years and one of the great sluggers of all time, was voted in last January by an overwhelming vote of 93.3 per cent of the 10-year veterans of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

First Year Eligible

Ted, who had his share of feuds with some of the writers in his playing days, received 282 of a possible 302 votes. Only 75 per cent (226 votes) were required. It was the first year the former Boston Red Sox star had been eligible.

After Stengel and Williams have responded with appropriate comments, a crowd of about 10,000 will move up Main Street to the Minnesota Twins play the St. Louis Cardinals in the annual Hall of Fame exhibition game.

Joe Cronin, Bill Dickey, Joe McCarthy and Bill Terry will be among the Hall of Famers on hand to swap stories with the new inductees.

Charley Dreyden, former sports writer from Chicago, will be honored with the J. G. Taylor Spink Award, to be accepted by Hal Lebowitz, sports editor of the Cleveland Plain-Dealer and national president of the baseball writers.

Before the exhibition game, Ken Fila of Omaha, Neb., will receive an award as the Player of the Year in 1965 in the American Legion Junior Baseball program.

Colorful Career

Stengel retired last Aug. 30 as manager of the New York Mets after an extremely colorful career as a player with Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and the New York Giants and manager of several major and minor league clubs, including a fabulously successful stretch with the Yankees. His Yankees won 10 pennants and seven world championships in 12 years from 1949 through 1960.

Williams finished his 19-year big league career in 1960 with 521 home runs and a lifetime average of .344. He won the triple crown of homers, average and RBI in 1942 and 1947, captured six batting titles, was most valuable player in the American League in 1949 and, of course, hit .406 in 1941.

Ted also served two hitchhikes as a Marine Corps flyer in World War II and the Korean War.

Kaat Wins 14th, Tops Bosox 10-4

BOSTON (AP) — Minnesota southpaw Jim Kaat breezed to his 14th victory Saturday night as the Twins unloaded a 17-hit attack in belting the Boston Red Sox 10-4.

Kaat, who has lost six, allowed nine hits, including George Thomas' homer and six doubles. He struck out seven and walked just one.

The Twins wrecked Boston pitching, which had posted a 2.45 earned run average in helping the Red Sox to 14 victories in 19 previous games.

Ted Uhlaender put Minnesota ahead with a homer in the third inning. Then the Twins paraded 11 batters to the plate in a five-run fifth which included five singles, a pair of walks and two hit batsmen.

Harmon Killebrew hit his 21st homer, a towering smash high into the center field bleachers, after Tony Oliva singled in the seventh.

Roland Sheldon, the first of six Boston pitchers, suffered his 11th defeat. He has won five.

Pennel Better's Pole Vault Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Pennel bettered the world record in the pole vault Saturday with a leap of 17 feet, 6¼ inches as a climax of the International Track and Field Games.

Most of the crowd remained to see the pole vault and Pennel, who will celebrate his 26th birthday Monday, made it on his third and last try.

Pennel's record first was announced at 17-6. When the bar was rereasured, however, the record height was found to be 17-6¼.

The 5-foot-10, 170-pound Pennel, whose muscular strength is from the waist up, made his 17-6¼ on his third and final vault.

He tried at 17-9 but was never close in either attempt.

It broke the pending world mark of his roommate, Bob Seagren, who cleared 17-5½ at Fresno, Calif., May 13, 1966.

The official listed world record of 17-4 was set by Fred Hansen of Riga, now retired, in the USA-USSR meet here July 25, 1964.

Earlier in the meet, Australian Ron Clarke won the 5,000-meter race, but his time of 13:28.4 failed to threaten his own world record of 13:16.6.

The 29-year-old champion, cheered on by 27,846 fans in Memorial Coliseum, took the lead from the outset and finished about 80 yards in front of Tracy Smith of the Pasadena Athletic Association, timed in 13:40.2.

The 5,000 meters was billed as the highlight of the two-day meet which replaced the USA-USSR affair, canceled when the Russians bowed out 10 days ago.

Clarke is scheduled to run the 10,000 meters Sunday, and sensational Jim Ryun will aim at Peter Snell's world 800-meter record, as well as his own 880-yard record.

America's Art Walker broke his own triple jump record of 54-7¾, set a week ago, with a leap of 54-11.

The 400-meter relay ended in victory for the Australian team of Gary Eddy, Allan Crawley, Gary Holdsworth and Peter Norman, with a time of 40.1.

The U.S. team of George Anderson, Harold Busby, Tom Jones and Jim Hines managed to finish in 42.1 after the third man, Busby, pulled up with a muscle injury. The American B team of George Gaines, Charlie Greene, Charles Mays and Adolph got in first in 40.1 but was disqualified because it was not an official entry.

Cooke Breaks Mark

Charlette Cooke of Los Angeles bettered the American record for 880 and 800 meters in one of the feature races of an event run off in weather that was sunny and in the 80-degree range.

Eighteen-year-old Charlette was timed in 2:03.8 for the 800 meters, bettering her own mark of 2:04.7 which she set at Berkeley, Calif., a week ago, and her 2:04.6 broke the 2:07.3 held by Marie Mulder, set in Russia last year for 880 yards.

"I set the early pace because I wanted to run away from the other guys and give myself a chance at the record," Clarke said.

"But after five laps I knew it was too hot. I felt good today, and I thought I had a chance for the record but the heat made it impossible."

Coliseum officials said the temperature was about 80 degrees on the floor of the stadium when the distance men took the track in late afternoon.

Could he have perhaps run faster at night?

"Yes," said Clarke. "The track was fast and in good shape and if it had been raced at night a record might have been possible."

World shot put champion Randy Matson of Texas A&M took the gold medal in his event with a toss of 66 feet, 8½ inches. Neal Steinhauer of Oregon was second at 64-2.

Another Viewpoint

Pete Gogolak, the Hungarian place kicker who unwittingly ball is on the right side of the (or otherwise) caused the greatest upheaval in pro football history when he jumped leagues and spurred a merger, claims to be blissfully oblivious to the impact of his move. "Playing out my option with the Buffalo Bills," he shrugs, "was for personal reasons. I'm not aware it meant more than that."

But Pete does confess that there was a period of couple of weeks before his agent (Fred Corcoran) negotiated a contract with the New York Giants when he experienced the feeling of insecurity at not having a job at all.

In the camp of the Giants at Fairfield, Conn., Pete has amazed the coaches with the concentrated exercise that goes into his kicking routines. With his father, a doctor and sports buff, and brother Charley (the No. 1 draft choice of the Washington Redskins), Pete worked out a strengthening drill in which he balances a soccer ball on his outstretched right foot, then kicks it repeatedly nonstop, without ever letting his foot touch the ground. His record so far is 1,500 straight taps with his foot, a maneuver Pete estimates took him 20 minutes.

"You ought to see," he says, "what it does for the muscles in both my legs." He does it every day in camp.

The only other exercise indulged in by the soccer-style booter is running, also to build stamina. "The toughest part for a place kicker," he says, "is concentration. You might sit around for 60 minutes, and then you come in cold, and you only have one chance. There's nothing else like it in sports."

The Bills, his old team, claimed that Pete was only a so-so booter from long range last season. Part of Gogolak's defense is that the Bills played 10 of their 14 regular season games in bad weather, in which he was booting a muddy ball. The other part is that the fates conspired against him. "I do my best kicking," he explains, "from the middle of the field, because of the 45-degree angle at which

Pirates Up Lead On 4-3 Margin

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Mazeroski's run-scoring single climaxed a four-run rally in the eighth inning that carried the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-3 victory over Houston Saturday night and increased the Pirates' National League lead to one game.

Bob Bruce blanked the Pirates on six hits until the eighth. Then with one out he walked Matly Alou, and pinch hitter Jerry Lynch doubled in the Pirates' first run.

Claude Raymond replaced Bruce, but Roberto Clemente singled pinch runner Gene Mitchell to third where he scored on Sonny Jackson's error on an attempted force play on Willie Stargell's grounder.

One out later, Donn Clendenon singled Clemente home, and Mazeroski brought Stargell across with another single, putting the Pirates ahead 4-3.

Jim Wynn drove in two of Houston's runs with a second-inning single and his 17th homer in the fifth.

The Astros also scored in the third as Rusty Staub led off with a triple and came home on John Bateman's sacrifice fly.

Westrum Wonders Where Years Went

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"You're joking," the New York Mets' manager said. The same kid?"

Westrum had just reached back to a September afternoon 13 years ago, the opening day of the 1954 World Series. He was the New York Giants' catcher and along with his teammates and the Cleveland Indians was standing around the Polo Grounds infield, waiting a little impatiently for the "first ball" ceremonies to end.

In a box seat, next to baseball commissioner Ford Frick, sat a youngster in a new windbreaker which proclaimed Schenectady, N.Y., the 1954 Little League champions.

Ford Frick whispered something to the youngster and he stood up, posed for the photographers and then threw out the first pitch.

Westrum caught it. He trotted back to the box seats, handed the ball to the youngster and said, "good luck."

"I didn't know his name," Westrum said.

On a July evening 13 years later, Westrum learned the youngster's identity. This time the setting was Shea Stadium and the Los Angeles Dodgers were in town to play the New York Mets.

Westrum, making out his line-up cards, scanned the Dodger roster and noticed a new acquisition named Jimmy Barbiere. That's when he started answering questions about the 1954 World Series.

Jimmy Barbiere was the captain of the 1954 Schenectady team which won the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa. As an honor, he threw out the first ball in that other World Series.

"I think," Jimmy said, smiling, "was had other things to worry about that day than talking to me."

Jimmy Barbiere is 24 now. He has been in the Los Angeles Dodgers' chain since the 1960 season with stops at Panama City, Fla., Green Bay, Salem, Ore., Omaha and the last three and a half years in Spokane.

An outfielder, he is only 5-7, 150 pounds and immediately he reminds you of the California Angels' Albie Pearson.

When the Dodgers called up Barbiere from Spokane July 3,

Allison Aims To Shoot Hemi-Heads Out Of The Saddle For Dixie 400

HAMPTON, Ga. — You ask Bobby Allison, a pleasant-mannered young man with blue eyes and a shock of dark hair, just who is his sponsor on the NASCAR championship trail and the answer is a bit unusual.

He smiles an easy smile and replies, the pride heavy in his voice: "Bobby Allison."

In this day and time of factory backing for fast stock car chauffeurs, Bobby Allison, the hustler from Hueytown, Ala., is indeed unusual. A combination of basic humility and large pride, Allison, is a driver with a great natural ability.

All his compatriots in the fast trade have given him the "Can't Miss" label. And now, as Allison sets his sights on a triumph in the upcoming $60,000 Dixie 400 on Sunday, Aug. 7 at Atlanta International Raceway, he gives promise of fulfillment.

The reason is simple: Allison is fresh from his first two big victories in NASCAR. And he accomplished this success by switching from a Ford, the one-time King of the stock car roads, to a Chevrolet!

"The Chevelle just has more steam," is the way Allison explains it. "Sure, I had pretty much of a factory ride with the Ford, but I've had better luck with the Chevelle. It's lighter, built for speed, gets better tire wear. It's more economical, and you get longer distances between pit stops — and all these are mighty important when it comes to winning big races."

The Chevrolet fans are hungry for victory, a fact underscored there was a long and loud applause July the Fourth as Curtis Turner finished fourth in the Firecracker 400.

"With a little luck and better pit stops — Lordy, they were long — ol' Curtis could've won the Firecracker," Bobby explains. "He should have at least wound up second."

Add to this the Chevrolet history of success at A.I.R. (two victories in the Dixie 400 in recent years), and there is more speculation to Allison's optimism concerning Atlanta in early August.

Bobby scored a sensational brace of triumphs on the so-called "Northern Swing" by the NASCAR drivers this month. He first drove his 1965 Chevy under the checkers at the Oxford Plains Speedway in Oxford, Maine. Four nights later it was Allison again, scoring in the 100-lapper at Islip Speedway, Long Island, N.Y. Allison thus won two of the four races on the swing north, an impressive feat.

The twin victories also pushed him to No. 9 standing in the NASCAR grand national points parade. He has a good chance of finishing as high as third, and possibly fourth, before the season ends in October. The man he beat at Islip is James Hylton, the present No. 2 man in the standings, and only an eyelash separates Allison from the fourth front-runner, Henley Gray, at the moment.

Besides being sole owner of his race car, head cook and bottle washer of the Allison enterprises, Bobby was also chief mechanic until this week.

"I got my older brother, Eddie (29) to turn the top wrench for me," Bobby explains. "It'll be easier this way."

One of Bobby's foremost competitors the past several years has been his younger brother, Donnie, who happens to be a Chevelle chauffeur, too.

So it is that on Aug. 7 at A.I.R. the Chevelle twins from Alabama will be out to challenge Chrysler and the King Hemi-Head dominance of NASCAR.

"It's time for a change," is the way Bobby puts it, smiling as always. "And Atlanta has a pretty good history of being a Chevrolet track. At the Dixie we're planning on doing it — shooting the hemi-heads right out of the saddle."

You Want To Live In Public Housing? Applications Ready

By JOHN B. MARTIN

If you're interested in moving into a public housing development with something of an historic nostalgia about it, applications will be accepted and interviews started Thursday, July 28.

The first 64 units of public housing, located on East Walnut, will be ready for occupancy in September.

If accepted, you will be living on the same ground where thousands of Jacksonville area citizens watched the international attractions of the great circus era perform.

The prancing of horses' feet and the roar of Bengal cats at the Hempel showgrounds have long since yielded to television performances with host Don Ameche.

The showgrounds in Jacksonville yielded to progress. It will soon be the new home of 64 families.

Take the Hempel showgrounds, stir in $1,193,330.00 federal tax dollars, bake for a year and out pops 64 family units in assorted sizes from two to five bedrooms.

Getting into the units is no guarantee of having an address on "easy street" but requirements are set forth in a twenty page document.

First Important Step
The first and most important step is to make application to move into the new units. Applications will be accepted and convenient interviews by appointment will start Thursday, July 28, at the Morgan County Housing Authority office on the second floor of the Dunlap Inn.

Executive Director William Cole said Saturday that applicants will know by September 1 whether they can qualify for admission and what priority they could expect.

Basic Requirements
Some of the more basic requirements include two years' residence in Morgan county. Displaced families due to government action will receive somewhat of a priority over others. Any family forced to move from the housing development areas or the new city hall project location will receive greater consideration than some of the other applicants.

Veterans in each of the categories will also receive extra consideration.

Financial Rules
Financial requirements play an important part in both the amount of rent and the admission to the development. A family with eight or more may have a total income of $5,200 maximum but the method of figuring the total income follows closely the federal income tax program.

The maximum figure applies to the total money available for living. This elusive figure is computed by adding the total income for working members of the household and deducting the regular income tax deduction for each member of the household. This sub-total is then further reduced by allowances for union dues, baby sitting in case the wife works or is unable to work, job travel expenses, and a host of other deductions. There is also a provision for priority depending whether the income is earned or received from other sources.

Another condition for admission is the rent paying ability of the applicant and his past experience in paying rent while in private housing.

The units will be approved, generally, on the basis of need and availability, but Director Cole said the housing authority was financed under conditions that require prompt payment of rent. The policy will be "no pay, no stay."

Rental Price Range
Rental range of the units will range from $32 to $85 per month, all-inclusive. Rents will include all utilities, refrigerator, stove, washer and dryer connections, clothes line and periodic maintenance.

Minimum rents will be from $32 to $44 per month for those persons who work at a regular job. Welfare recipients' rent will range from $45 to $75 per month.

Once accepted, the family unit may earn up to 25% over the maximum before being asked to leave. Rentals will be revised as the family's income increases, however.

Assets or net worth at the time of admission may not exceed $4,200.

Units available include 16 two-bedroom; 26 three-bedroom; 18 four-bedroom; and 4 five-bedroom.

The registration, application and screening process will be handled during August. Moving day will be in September.

Prospective applicants should apply in person at the Morgan County Housing Authority office, second floor of the Dunlap Inn, between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Appointments will also be made by telephone. The Housing authority number is 243-2812.

Volunteers Needed Tuesday, Thursday For Fair Work Days

Volunteers will be needed for two work days this week at the Morgan County Fairgrounds.

The first will be Tuesday, July 26, and the second, July 28. The dates were set by the board of directors of the fair association to prepare the grounds for this year's five-day exposition.

The first day will be used to prepare the building, mow grass and other cleanup details. The second will be to put up tents to house some of the exhibits.

Several volunteers contributed their time and effort toward completing another permanent exhibit building to be used this year for housing cattle. A new barn has also been completed to house race horses and will be available for training purposes during the off-season.

The Armbruster company will furnish tents for the fair this year. Due to a tragedy in the family which formerly provided the canvas, the contract was cancelled.

The contract with the Armbruster Co. stipulates that labor must be supplied locally to raise the tents. A superintendent and stake driving machine will arrive Thursday and the volunteers will be needed to assist.

Tents will be needed to house displays for auto dealers, implement dealers, show horses and other livestock. Several concessions will also use tents.

Lunch Provided
Lunch will be provided for workers participating in the work days. Starting time will be 8:30 a.m. each day.

Entries in the various divisions of the fair are now being taken at the office on the fairgrounds. The office will be open Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 5 p.m. Entries in all divisions except floriculture must be made before Friday, July 29, at 5 p.m.

Talent Show
Entries are now being accepted for a talent show which will be held on Thursday, August 4th, during Jacksonville Day at the Morgan County Fair.

Jerry Symons, superintendent, said entry blanks may be obtained anytime at the office at the fairgrounds, and must be returned by August 1st. There is no entry fee.

Contestants must be 21 years of age or under and may appear solo, duet or in a group, but no group may have over eight participants. Performers will be required to provide their own music. A piano will be available.

There will be three divisions: musical, dancing and variety. The musical division will include vocal, instrumental, mixed vocal and instrumental, and dancing. Included in the dancing division will be modern, adagio, acrobatic, original styles and novelty. The variety division will include tumbling, magic, comedy monologue, juggling and other.

Premiums totaling $50 will be awarded in each division, with $20 for 1st place, $15 for 2nd, $10 for 3rd and $5 for 4th. The first place winner in each division will be certified to compete in the Young America Fair Talent Contest, which will be held at the State Fair in Springfield.

Contestants will be allowed five minutes to present their act.

Church Leaders Criticize U.S. Attacks In Viet
GENEVA (AP)—The world conference on church and society overwhelmingly approved a report Saturday criticizing the U.S. military buildup and air attacks in Viet Nam as unjustifiable.

At the same time, 72 American laymen and theologians at the conference urged President Johnson not to order reprisals if North Viet Nam tries U.S. prisoners as war criminals.

The conference report criticizing U.S. policy in Viet Nam was adopted with only a few hands among the 400 delegates raised against it.

The report, drafted by an 82-member conference section on structures of international cooperation, declared:

"The massive and growing American military presence in Viet Nam and the long continued bombing of villages in the south and of targets a few miles from cities in the north cannot be justified."

It said the increased U.S. military presence and air raids "involve the danger of escalation of the war into a world conflict and for this reason do not bring South Viet Nam closer to political stability or solve the problems which have produced a revolutionary situation in that country."

The report included a brief call on North Viet Nam to end its military infiltration of the South.

It asks the conference to urge an end to all hostilities in Viet Nam to bring about conditions for a peaceful settlement through the United Nations, the Geneva conference or other international agencies.

The United States expanded air attacks on North Viet Nam last month by opening up bombing attacks on petroleum depots outside Hanoi and Haiphong and elsewhere in the country. The aim is to destroy the oil supplies Hanoi needs to run its war machine.

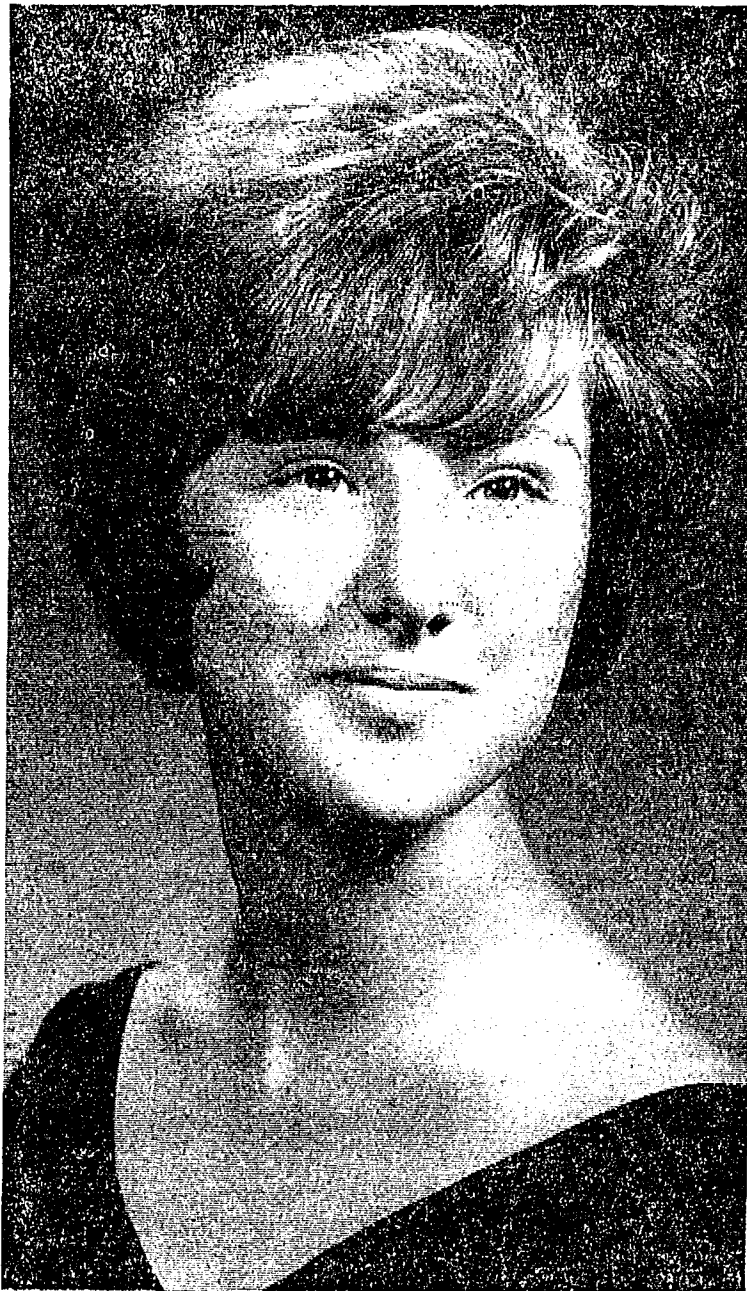

After the oil strikes, North Viet Nam threatened to bring captured airmen to trial as war criminals. The U.S. response was that such trials could result in "dis

Editorial Comment

Food In Perspective

Tell the average housewife that food prices are not really out of line, and you're likely to get an argument. One would suppose her arguments would be hard to meet, since she is the one who has to match the family's grocery budget against rising costs at the supermarket.

But the argument that food prices are too high is not hard to meet. There is persuasive evidence that, when viewed in sensible perspective, the cost of food in the United States continues to be remarkably low.

One way of looking at the matter is to make comparisons with earlier but fairly recent experience in this country. Well, then, consider the Department of Agriculture statistics on percentage of after-tax income spent on food now and in 1950. At that time Americans spent about 25 per cent of income for food; today the figure is down to 18 per cent, and the USDA estimates it will drop to 17 by 1970.

The cost of practically everything has risen in the past two decades, but as it happens food is not among the chief villains. The average rise for all items in the cost of living index since 1947 has been 35 per cent. Medical care has risen by about 77 per cent. But the food price increase in that period was 28 per cent.

Comparison with proportionate spending on food in other countries gives further insight into the matter. That figure of 18 per cent of the dollar spent on food in America looks quite good when compared, say, with the 38 per cent of income spent on food by Italians. The U.S. percentage appears sensational when compared with what Russians and Peruvians spend on food: 56 per cent of their income.

One more thing: About 20 per cent of the average "grocery" bill is spent on non-food items. That further underscores the point that food is still a bargain.

Bad Research Trend

The way things are going in Washington, one might think basic scientific research was a kind of luxury that the nation can't afford just now. One might think that the mission of science was not to seek knowledge but to turn out "practical" findings that can be put to use today, or at the very latest tomorrow. This view of science as a kind of glorified exercise in Yankee ingenuity, with a steady outpouring of tools and conveniences as a result, appears to be gaining the upper hand.

There are reports of congressional pressure on the National Science Foundation for more stress on applied research—that is, on study of how to make use of present knowledge. If the pressure becomes too great, basic research is bound to suffer. To some extent it is suffering already. Congress has shown its colors by putting a crimp in the so-called Mohole project, whose objective is to learn more about the internal structure and dynamics of the earth. Other basic research undertakings may be cut back, or not started, if the present trend continues.

President Johnson, too, is pushing for more "practical" returns on the U.S. research dollar. He gave health research officials the blunt word on this, demanding more progress on disease cures—"more results for the survival of our people." That kind of talk from the chief executive, however laudable his motives, naturally works against placing emphasis on basic research.

The tragedy of this is that basic research is the foundation on which all other scientific and technological development rests. Concentrating on applied research will produce more and faster benefits in the short run, but over the long haul such a policy might seriously undermine our scientific progress. Congress and the President ought to reconsider their attitude on this matter.

Dear Ann:

Respect-Two-Way Proposition

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a teenager who wants to comment on that letter from "Mom" whose strong-willed daughter was dating a boy from the "wrong side of the tracks" as she put it. When "Mom" asked you what to do with "the stubborn brat" I knew right then that it was a hopeless case.

Why don't parents realize that fighting with their kids never accomplishes anything? It only makes kids more determined to have their own way. There must be love and respect on BOTH sides. If parents want their children to respect them, they must respect their children. Yelling, hitting and name-calling does not generate much respect from anybody.

Last year I dated a boy my folks didn't like very well. They never told me I COULDN'T go with him. They were polite and pleasant and pretty soon I understood why my folks didn't care much for the boy. I stopped going with him on my own.

I hope you will write up this letter better so it will be good enough to print. It's very important to us teen-agers to get our side represented. Thank you. —NORMAL

Dear Normal: I wouldn't change a word of your letter. It is fine just as you wrote it. It is worth noting that children talk to their parents in the same way their parents talk to them—even the tone of voice is the same. Respect, consideration, and love is always a two-way proposition.

When we old fogies say it, it sounds squaresville but coming from a teen—well, that's a different bucket of bolts, Toots. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann: Why would the father of a fine family be so interested in civic and charitable causes that he neglects his wife and children to the point where they feel abandoned?

These men are rarely home because they are going to meetings almost every night. Saturdays and Sundays are spent on outside activities. Their own sons are virtually fatherless because these do-gooders are always doing good for someone else's children.

I know several men who fit into this category. They are admired by everyone (except their families) for their selfless dedication and service to humanity. By now you surely have guessed that I am married to such a man. Perhaps if I understood WHY he is this way I could stop feeling sorry for myself. Please help. —EXCESS BAGGAGE

Dear Excess: Men (and women, too) who devote all their extra time and energy to outside activities, at the expense of family life, are actually running away from those closest to them because they are more comfortable with strangers. It's much easier to be a hero to non-relatives, you know.

Husbands and wives, fathers and sons, and mothers and daughters who work "TOGETHER" on community and church projects enrich not only the community but their family's lives as well.

Confidential to Marriage Gone Sour: Would you use tear gas to rid the house of mice? Well, this makes about as much sense. Leaving a husband of four months because he forgot to call to say he wasn't coming home to dinner is just plain childish. It's too bad your folks told you, "The door is always open." Go back to your husband where you belong.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Washington Positive Shot in Arm Vital To Languid Army Reserve

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Uncertainty can kill morale faster than anything else.

The other day some of us were talking to a group of young Army reserve lieutenants. They were selected, topflight reserve officers. They were also upcoming men in their civilian work.

These young men were debating whether to continue in the reserves when their six-year obligatory term was up.

They didn't ask about reserve pay. There wasn't any for the reserve posts they were considering. They didn't ask about promotions. They knew they would be slow.

These young men basically asked only two questions:

Question 1 — Would they be given the tough, demanding, difficult jobs in the reserves that would challenge them and prepare them for a possible war assignment?

If they wouldn't be given such jobs, then they weren't interested.

Question 2 — With the reserve program so unsettled and confused with all this talk of merging with the National Guard, was there going to be any program that they could count on or would whatever they joined blow up in their faces before it even got going?

They couldn't find out the answer to this from anyone, they said.

"I've been sitting around now for more than a year in the reserves while people were trying to make up their minds and haven't been called on to do anything," said one of the young men. "What assurance can anyone give me that if I sat on, it won't be the same?"

"What's the future in the reserves? From where I sit I don't see much," he said. "They talk of training. But I'm not being trained."

These young officers and some 526,000 other reserve officers and enlisted men, are part of a "pool." A few thousand of this "pool" are in organized units or detachments. Some have summer training.

Numbers of these young officers and men are highly trained specialists, either through Army or civilian training and experience — in electronics, finance, intelligence, data processing, or any one of hundreds of essential skills.

These are skills that certainly would be in short supply in any war — whether it is a worldwide conflict or a local counterinsurgency.

Such highly skilled and highly motivated officers and men and the leadership they represent can't be quickly trained in the numbers needed. Some have developed their skills after years of intensive study and practice. Their knowledge and experience can't be drilled into men in six-week quickie courses.

Some dedicated officials and officers have been attempting to make changes in the reserve program which would hold these essential young officers and non-commissioned officers in the reserves.

But the constant hullabaloo over Defense Secretary McNamara's merger with the National-Guard proposals — which are neither alive nor dead — and the uncertainty that these proposals create — won't let the reserve program settle down to business.

LBJ: Hero's Mantle Eludes Him

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — One year ago two respected Washington observers broke into print almost simultaneously with sweeping summaries of the criticisms then being heaped on President Johnson.

They set the whole town talking. That same week, Johnson named his top aide, Bill D. Moyers, as press secretary in what was widely taken as a move to alter his image.

Yet today matters seem only to be worse. Less than a majority of the people, the polls say, approve either his general performance or his conduct of the war in Viet Nam. Few Democratic figures announce proudly they are wearing the LBJ brand.

The assaults upon the President are so vigorous and so constant that it is hard now to recall 1965 and the avalanche of his Great Society triumphs.

His combat with the press — and that is what it is — is relieved only by temporary truces called press conferences, which seem merely to feed a mutual estrangement. Reporters who necessarily accompany him to Texas feel as isolated as if they were in Saigon.

When Harry Truman fell to low estate, sympathy stirred in many hearts. Lyndon Johnson gets almost none, perhaps partly because he does not look as if he needed it.

Like any president, he labors hard for his niche in history. There may be times nowadays when, under steady hammering, he imagines that history may prove his only durable friend.

With a national electorate strongly Democratic, it is conceivable Johnson might be re-elected in 1968 by millions who accept him not only without affection but with diminishing admiration as well.

There is a danger in the prospect that the President and the nation may be found barely tolerating one another.

For all his vaulted lin'ts to men of valued judgment beyond the White House gates, he lives today in a kind of unspelled isolation.

A man acknowledged to have prodigious talents, great energies, an incalculable dedication to work, Johnson must be baffled to see these things dismissed almost as of no account.

In 1966 he presides over a nation which, abroad, is fighting its most puzzling war and which, at home, seethes with the unprecedented social ferment of the Negro revolution. He keeps his footing.

Man of action and accomplishment though he is, the President nevertheless searches in vain for the garments of the hero. Other names — Roosevelt, Eisenhower, Kennedy — ring in his ears. There are no great Johnson cohorts.

Even the abilities for which he is celebrated have, in the end, hurt him. In the beginning much was said of his appreciation of the uses of power. Now, power and Johnson are often spoken of as an unhappy coalition.

Many Americans, to judge from their recorded comment, miss in Lyndon Johnson the leaven of idealism which makes the stern uses of power understandable and endurable. Too frequently, they identify him only with its meaner applications.

The waiter in the Boston restaurant had just delivered the meal to the young man when the assault took place. The diner jumped up, stared at the beans and brown bread and began to choke the waiter. Other patrons pulled him off, the police were called and an investigation begun. Then the story came out.

The young man had been a prisoner in a concentration camp. For four bleak years he had lived close to death, watched his fellow prisoners being taken away, and existed each day just a notch above starvation. Almost his only diet for years had been a harsh black bread, composed of very little bran or nourishment. That brown bread became the symbol of his hatred. Now, having survived these experiences, and living in the freedom of a new land, he was suddenly overwhelmed by his obsession.

Reading of the incident only confirms the truism that most of us have "brown breads." It is astonishing to see the way in which polite people can suddenly spew out violent words or choke their neighbor by thoughts and words. Look at the various extremist groups that spring up around the nation.

Here are men and women of various abilities, skilled in numerous disciplines, who react with violence or overemotionalism at certain words or phrases. You can't talk rationally with them. They've decided that a certain group is subversive, or an organization is un-American and they react with a stranglehold. Normally they eat their beans in peace. Now the brown bread arouses their ancient anger.

FINDING THE WAY

Faith: Ingredient to Make

"Brown Breads" Palatable

Recognizing this in each of us underscores the need of daily renewal of faith. The ancient prayer, "Create in me a clean heart and renew in me a right spirit," is a daily requisite. That cleanliness of emotions requires daily ablutions as much as does the cleanliness of one's hands. That renewal of a spirit of understanding demands a daily commitment as real as does the tackling of today's problems. Just to recognize these "brown breads"—these symbols of our real or imagined grudges—is to take the first step toward emotional health.

Once it was just a matter of one man with one man. In today's world, each day puts new controls into the hands of persons. Now it is the decision of one man that can affect the destiny of thousands. On a one-to-one basis, there are others that can pull off the irrational man and save the waiter. On a one-to-thousands basis, the possibility is diminished.

In this kind of a world it is no mere pietism to urge a new commitment to daily prayer, to daily renewal, to daily growth of mind and spirit. Each person has his recognized or hidden hurts that demand daily attention. As the Psalmist wrote, "In the morning let my prayer come before Thee, O Lord."

Man's Capacity for Faith

—By VIKTOR E. FRANKL

Excerpted from "The Doctor and The Soul" "It is true that Freud once declared in conversation: 'Humanity has always known that it possesses a spirit: it was my task to show it that it had instincts as well.'"

But I myself feel that humanity has demonstrated as nauseam in recent years that it has instincts. Today, it appears more important to remind man that he has a spirit — that he is, in fact, a spiritual being.

If we present man as a bundle of instincts, as a mere product of instinct, heredity and environment, we feed the nihilism to which modern man, in any case, is prone. I am absolutely convinced that the gas chambers of Auschwitz and Maidenau were ultimately prepared, not in some Berlin ministry or other, but rather at the desks of nihilism in the lecture halls of nihilistic scientists and philosophers.

Psychologism asserts that art is simple. The goal of psychology is to heal the soul to nothing but flight from life or love. Religion is merely religion is to save it. Religion provides man with a spiritual anchor such as he can find nowhere else. But psychotherapy can produce an unintended side effect. Although the psychoanalyst is not concerned with helplessness or psychopaths. After we have been through such a course of "debunking" by psychologism, we can with confidence say that man's capacity for faith.

plete complacency say that Goethe or St. Augustine was "really only" a neurotic.

Can there be anything immediate, genuine, original? Psychologism then is the favorite recourse of those with a tendency toward devaluation.

To my mind it is a partial aspect of a more comprehensive phenomenon: that the end of the 19th century and the beginning of the 20th completely distorted the picture of man by stressing all the numerous restraints placed on him in the grip of which he is supposedly helpless.

Yet responsibility and freedom comprise man's spiritual domain.

Contemporary man, however, has become weary of all that is spiritual; and this weariness has been the essence of that nihilism which has been so often mentioned and so rarely decried. What is the relation between psychotherapy and religion? In my view the answer is simple. The goal of psychology is to heal the soul to nothing but flight from life or love. Religion is merely religion is to save it. Religion provides man with a spiritual anchor such as he can find nowhere else. But psychotherapy can produce an unintended side effect. Although the psychoanalyst is not concerned with helplessness or psychopaths. After we have been through such a course of "debunking" by psychologism, we can with confidence say that man's capacity for faith.

Q—How can I cut down foam in my cooking beans and prunes?

A — Both species belong to the Prunus group, of course. In the industry, however, a plum means one of the varieties grown for fresh use, for jams, jellies, but too juicy to be dried. Prunes, ripen later in the season and are always blue-purple in color. Most prunes are dried. Some, however, are sold fresh. Prunes have firmer flesh and a higher sugar and acid content than plums. They are dried with the pit intact.

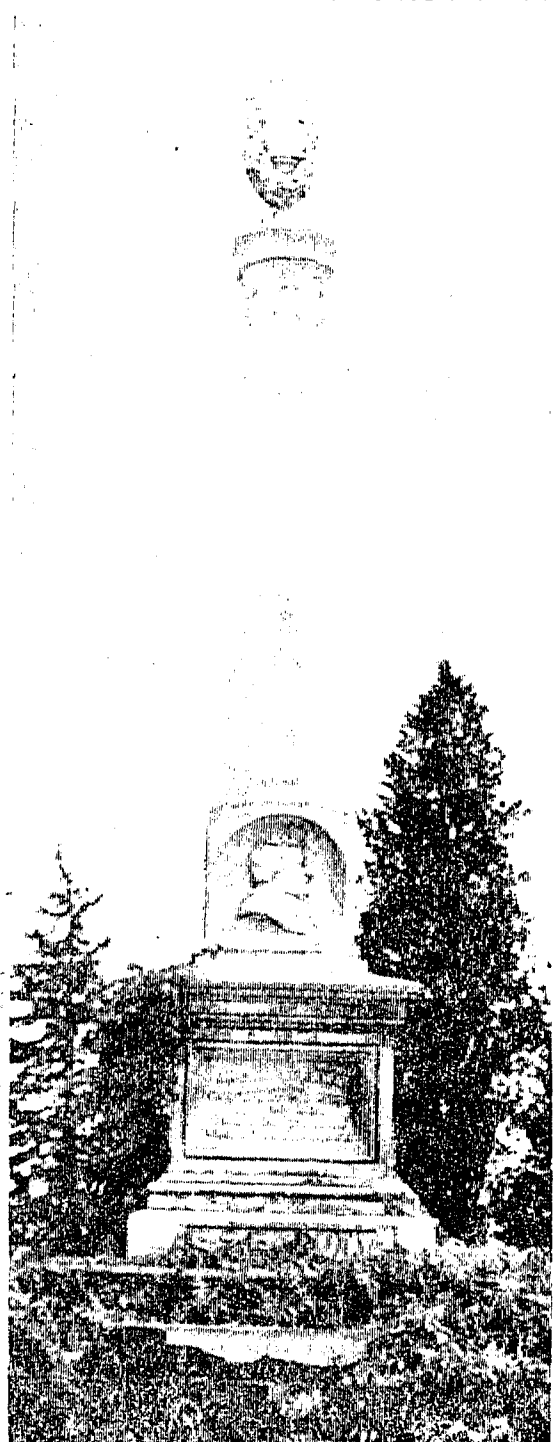

pressure valve.
Q Please tell me what is the difference between a plum and a prune?

A — For each cup of dry beans or peas add one tablespoon of meat drippings or other fat to the cooking water. The fat trick works best on Great Northern, red kidney, pinto or pea beans. It does not help to keep large limas from foaming.

In pressure cooking this trick is especially helpful since foam can be a real problem, if it rises high enough to get into the

The Jacob Strawn Monument

One hundred years today one of the favorite diversions was to go down to R. C. Smith's marble works on the south side of East State street and watch him work on the monument ordered by the widow of the late Jacob Strawn.

At the time Smith's competitor, Columbus Cross, freely predicted that the shaft would fall apart within a few years, because he claimed that the marble was of "most inferior quality, far unlike the superior article utilized at my yards, on Mauvalsterre, near North Street."

It is pretty obvious Cross was wrong, for the monument looks very well today as it stands in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Great Rivals

For years the keen competition between Smith and Cross helped enliven the town.

Smith was a hard working man with a large family who lived away out in the sticks, on South Clay near Superior, where he pastured a couple of cows and had plenty of room for a large garden and quite a few chickens, ducks and geese.

Cross was a debonaire bachelor who dressed in the latest style and lived at the Dunlap House.

For years practically every issue of either the Journal or the Sentinel carried a "card" inserted by one of the stone-carriers. Neither one of the two was modest when it came to blowing his own horn, always asserting his workmanship was away better and that he always used superior marble.

This is where the joker is. They both got their marble at the same place.

All of it came from Italy, usually in a partially finished form, as ballast in the wheat ships that sailed to New Orleans to buy grain. The stones were put aboard steamboats and sent up river on consignment. Nearly every town that had a good-sized grain elevator also had a wholesale and retail marble yard.

Same Thing Today

The counterclaims of Smith and Cross have counterparts today, especially in detergents. The charming voice that trills out of the magic lantern finds that Brand A makes her clothes whiter than white. Another female much prefers Brand B, that wonderful one that puts sunshine in her hair. And of course there is Brand C, which makes polka dot more polka-dotted than ever.

And then there is Brand X, that curish, unmentionable "wash day product."

But if you've visited a detergent packaging factory lately you noticed that the high-speed boxing equipment never halts, doesn't even slow down, as it switches from Brand A to Brand B and C. And I suspect it put up a lot of Brand X.

The Italians were master stonecutters and had worked their marble quarries for generations. But they always needed cheaper wheat, their favorite food. So what could be better than to make a deal with the Americans?

The wheat ships couldn't sail to New Orleans unloaded. Put in some marble in the hold. Then transfer the marble to the river boats which had brought down the wheat, usually in three bushel sacks, and let the boats haul the marble—finished, semi-finished or rough—upstream to trade it for more wheat.

At Naples and Mercedosa

The first marble yard in this section was in Naples, but soon others were started at Mercedosa and Beardstown. There you could buy fin-

When Jacob Strawn, "The Cattle King," died Aug. 23, 1865, leaving 36,000 acres of good land, thousands of cattle and hogs and more than three million fence rails, it was no more than fitting that his widow, second wife, should put a suitable marker in his memory.

The front of the monument faces north and it bears a graven likeness of the man. He was a very large man, weighing 300 pounds in his prime and 400 when he died.

A sketch of cattle feeding in a pasture, with low hills in the background embellishes the west side of the monument.

The east side is decorated by a walking plow and lush corn. On the rear is a shield telling of the death of his son, Daniel, 5, in an accident "in a flouring mill." Soon after Strawn came to Morgan county from Ohio he raised considerable wheat and built a flour mill powered by a yoke of oxen. For several years he furnished most of the flour consumed in this locality.

But it is said that after the fatal accident he quit the milling business and later on declared that no wheat should be grown on the rich prairies of Illinois, that only legumes and grasses—including that king of grasses, maize—should be grown here and that the pastures and grain should be converted into beef and pork to the best interests of the farmer, the land and the community.

And then there is Brand X, that curish, unmentionable "wash day product."

News, Views Century Ago

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

It is understood that John D. Strong has resigned the position of Postmaster in this city. By a singular coincidence, as appears by a private leader received from Washington by one of our citizens, Capt. Horace Chapin, the defeated radical contestant for county clerk, appeared at Washington in the nick of time to apply for the office vacated by Mr. Strong's resignation, and waited upon Senator Browning with a petition for the appointment. But Mr. Browning is too old a bird to be trapped into making a radical appointment, and the probabilities are that the radical applicant will return with a huge flea in his ear.

WEEDS - WEEDS - If half a dozen workmen would borrow scythes and go through the town and mow the weeds for each proprietor in front of his lot at an average fair price (say 10 to 25 cents for a common lot) they would make good wages at easy work and do the public a good service too.

We are informed over one hundred new dwellings have been erected in this city the present season.

A storm passed over this county on Monday evening, accompanied by unusual heavy thunder and vivid lightning. Some stacks of hay belonging to J. W. King were struck and burned, as were some stacks on the dairy farm north of town. The telegraph wires near the railroad depot were melted by the electric fluid.

THE PRIMARY MEETINGS

The Democratic primary meetings are appointed to come off in the several precincts, on Saturday next. The old Democratic ball has commenced to roll, and we trust the sterling Democracy of old Morgan will turn out at the primary meetings and give it a hearty shove.

From the Carrollton Gazette:

What Carrollton really needs is a Tenant House Co. We venture the assertion that 50 dwelling houses could be rented in this town by the first of November. The venture would surely pay at least 25 per cent and that ought to satisfy the most avaricious.

STEAM SAW MILL - The portable steam saw mill for Lucius and Charles Eldred arrived at our depot on Friday of last week, and has been taken out by them, and, we believe, put in operation.

RELIGIOUS - Rev. Dr. Akers will preach a sermon on future punishment, in Whitehall, August 19th, 1866, at half past ten o'clock.

In an assault and battery case heard on Monday last there were no witnesses, the plaintiff and the defendant both telling their story in their own way. The case went to the jury without special pleading. After minutes deliberation the jury found a verdict of "no cause of action," after which the defendant lagerbeered and liquored the crowd.

From the Beardstown Central Illinoisian:

The weather remains very hot, with the mercury ranging from 95 to 99.

We had a very heavy rain here Wednesday evening - that in connection with former rains has raised the Illinois River at this point twelve inches. It is still rising.

A New Soft Wheat, Riley, Best Yields In Oakes Test Plots

Seven soft winter wheats, five of them raised in the Royal Oaks variety test plots near Bluffs for the first time and three of them so new they are still unnamed, were the high yielders this year, according to a summary prepared by George Myers, Scott county farm adviser.

There were 16 varieties tested this year. They were planted last Oct. 4 at the rate of 70 pounds per acre. All plots were fertilized with 243 pounds of 8-8-8 pre-plant per acre.

The plots were harvested under ideal conditions July 8.

Quality of all samples was very good, with test weights running from 63 to 65.5 pounds per bushel and a moisture range from 10.98 to 12.21%.

The top yielder was Riley. It made 73.5 bushels per acre. Monon, raised in the plots for the past seven years, ranked second with 73.16 bushels. This was considerably the best Monon has produced, but it does have a seven-year average of 57.55 bushels.

Knox 63 ranked seventh with 60 bushels and it now has a 50.35 average for the past four years.

Pawnee, long a favored hard wheat in this section, ranked 15th in productivity this season. It yielded 54.5 which has slightly raised its 21 year average, to 47.99 bushels. Triumph, another old standby, made 45.5 bushels to give it a 49.53 bushel average for the 18 years it has been raised in the Oakes plots.

The varieties, yield and test weight, in this year's trials follow:

Riley	73.50	64.5
Monon	73.16	63.5
Ill. 59x884	67.83	65.0
Ill. 59x886	66.50	64.0
Ill. 59x844	66.00	64.5
Stadler	64.66	65.5
Knox 62	60.00	65.6
Gage	59.50	63.0
Hume	59.16	64.0
Scott	59.00	64.0
Vermilion	58.50	64.5
Ottawa	57.33	65.0
Caddo	54.83	64.0
Lewis	54.50	63.0
Pawnee	54.50	64.5
Triumph	45.50	64.5

Although the corn crop was later this year than last in most of Illinois and some other areas, condition of the crop was better than last year in most states.

States showing most improvement were Minnesota, Indiana, and Wisconsin. Only one important state, South Dakota, expected a lower yield.

Heat and Drought Damage

Crop. Hot, dry weather beginning about June 20 has cut corn prospects this year. Hot weather is generally thought to be good for corn. But in the main part of the corn belt we get our best yields in years when temperatures average a little below normal. Hot weather at tasseling time can injure corn. Shortages of soil moisture combined with hot, dry winds at this time can ruin a corn crop.

As we write here in Urbana on July 12, the forecast is for "temperatures near 105." We cannot remember such a high forecast. The weatherman of Springfield said yesterday that temperatures in recent weeks had been like those in the extreme drought year of 1936.

Stock of Corn. Corn stocks on farms on July 1 were estimated at 1,347 million bushels, 5 percent above the same date a year ago. July 1 stocks at other locations will be reported on July 25. They are expected to be considerably smaller than last year.

The carryover of corn on October 1 is not expected to exceed 1.1 billion bushels. This amount would be 10 percent less than last year and 55 percent less than the record carryover in 1961.

Soybeans. Soybean production is not forecast in July (the first official forecast will be released on August 10). Soybean acreage was, however, estimated at 36.9 million acres, 7 percent more than last year. If yield is equal to the five-year average, which is 24 1/2 bushels, production will total about 900 million bushels. This would be about 7 percent more than the 1965 crop of 844 million bushels.

There will be very few old soybeans left for carryover on September 1, just as there was little carryover last year. If domestic and foreign demands continue to increase, as now seems likely, supplies will be very tight a year hence. Any shrinkage of the present crop will make the shortage more acute.

Wheat. Average yield is expected to be 25.3 bushels per acre, or 1.3 bushels less than last year. With this yield, the wheat crop would total 1,240 million bushels, 7 percent less than a year ago. The carryover on July 1 won't be reported until July 25, but it is expected to be about 550 million bushels. This amount would be about 60 percent less than the record carryover of 1961.

Hampshire Swine Men To Stage 28th Conference

The Du Quoin fairgrounds, home of the famous Hambleton, will soon be filled with the country's finest Hampshire hogs. This well known fairgrounds will be the site of the 28th National Hampshire Meat Hog Type conference, August 1, 2 and 3.

Hogmen from 20 states have made over 750 entries, making it the largest consignment in the history of Hampshire conferences according to Harold Boucher, executive secretary of Hampshire Swine Registry. The Registry, along with the Illinois Hampshire breeders and various local firms and organizations, sponsor this educational event.

This large entry, says Boucher, is a good advance index of the tremendous importance and significance this conference has among the Hampshire breeders across the country. Some six to seven hundred people from at least two dozen states are expected to take part in the three day program.

A special program for the ladies is also planned. The 1966 National Hampshire Queen will also be selected and crowned during the conference. A judging contest, including divisions for FFA and 4-H teams, juniors, men and ladies will be held.

"If you want to know more about meat hogs, plan to attend this event," Boucher says.

FOOD-POPULATION RACE RAISING CONCERN: FREEMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has told an international organization there is growing concern throughout the world over the outcome of the food-population race. But, he said, the war on hunger can be won.

Freeman told the organization for Economic Cooperation and Development Thursday several factors contribute to the deepening concern.

"The encouraging advances in per capita food production recorded in the developing countries during the 1950's have been reversed in many cases during the present decade," he said.

"The depletion of worldwide food reserves, particularly wheat and rice, also has contributed to the rising level of concern."

Freeman cited some bright spots, however, including:

"1. New recognition of the importance of agriculture by the developing countries. Today agriculture is given No. 1 priority by nations that have neglected it for centuries.

"2. Increased investment of domestic resources and foreign exchange in agriculture.

"3. An awareness of new production techniques as evidenced by a strong demand which is currently outrunning the supply of fertilizer, seed and pesticides."

BRIMFUL and running over By Jim Brim

Ever wish the hired man took as lively an interest in things as you do on your farm? Good help is hard to get and worth trying to help.

Some have tried incentive plans to attract and keep reliable men.

Some of their ideas are:

1. Pay extra cash for extra production. Such as $1 for each pig weaned over seven per litter. Give it some thought before you do this.
2. Let the man have some livestock of his own on your place.
3. Share the profit, if any. Since wasted feed and broken machinery eat into the profit—and the bonus — he will stay more awake to losses.

Here are some guides:

Reward a good man for working towards your interests as well as his own.

Keep the agreement simple, and write it out.

Remember that incentives can't substitute for good wages and good personal relations.

Pay as soon as possible after requirements are met.

Think about it before you act.

Now you should...

...eat ice cream.

...cut weeds.

...play ball.

...be a deer, not a talker.

...watch reaction of different corn varieties to hot, dry weather.

Be sure you read instructions for use of chemicals. Be sure they are approved for the use you intend to make of them.

THANKFUL HEART

By Mary Pence Claywell

The sun is bright, up in the sky;
Spring is past . . . and summer's night;
The robins sing, and from above
God reaches down . . . with Healing Love;
The way sometimes, seems steep and long,
Yet still . . . WE NEVER ARE ALONE;
The "yesterday" is now as sand
"Tomorrow" still is in His Hand;
"Today" is here, NEW HOPE TO BRING,
Thanks, Jesus Dear . . . for EVERYTHING!

MY PUPPY

Once upon a time I got a puppy. I was happy so I said, "Thank you for the puppy." The puppy likes me. In the morning she jumps up on me. I feed her.

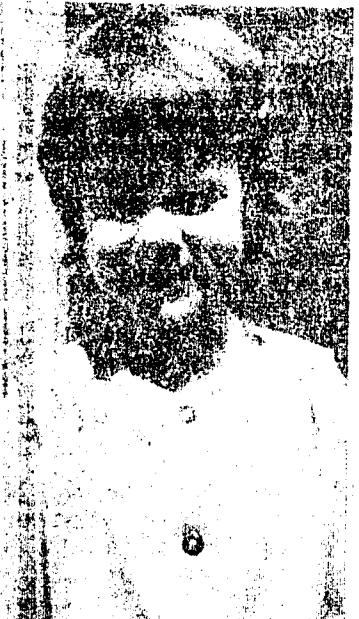

Then she does not eat for a while. Then when I go to school she eats.

Gail, came over last night to see her and in the summer Cathy, Lori, Sandy, might come over too.

I might have a party, some time. I am going to take her over to Mrs. Henskeys.

She weighs 2 pounds and 2 ounces. Her name is Suzette. It is a true story.

DANGERS IN SPACE

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON JR.

There are many dangers in space, not all of which have yet been encountered by our Astronauts of Russia's Cosmonauts. The possibility of one of these hazards causing trouble will increase as space flights become more frequent.

One hazard that has frequently been met is the danger of equipment failure. This is also a contributing cause to many of the other perils.

Fortunately this danger is lessened as equipment is perfected. Since a spacecraft, and its booster rocket, have thousands of parts, a few minor malfunctions are expected on any flight.

Backups

To prevent loss of life through equipment malfunctions all systems necessary for the astronauts survival have backups. This does not mean they can necessarily complete the mission using the spare parts.

For example, on the flight of Gemini 8 a thruster, like the one shown in the picture above, stuck on. This caused all the fuel to drain out of the orbital maneuvering system and Astronauts Neil Armstrong and David Scott were forced to use the reentry controls to stabilize the capsule. This met that they had to return to earth on the next orbit.

Another hazard is the danger of a navigational error by the astronauts. This could be contributed to be a malfunction of the computers which aid the astronauts in guiding their spacecraft.

Off Course

Even a slight navigational error can cause a spacecraft to go far off course. This is what happened on Scott Carpenter's flight in Aurora 7, the second Project Mercury manned orbital flight. Carpenter began reentry with his capsule at an angle 8 to 10 degrees too high. This caused him to overshoot the recovery area by 200 miles.

As man travels further and further into space, the danger from navigational error will increase greatly. If Apollo astronauts went of course on their way to the moon they would have to put their craft into a long oval orbit that would bring them back to earth. Otherwise they would go sailing off into interplanetary space never to return.

Because of the possibility of error on the flight to the moon a mid-course maneuver is planned to adjust any mistakes made during the launching.

To The Planets

On an interplanetary voyage the astronauts would not have the same chance to return to earth as the Apollo astronauts, unless they discovered their error early in the flight. Also on their return from the planet they would have to manage their navigation by themselves with no help from earth.

It would take 5.76 minutes for a radio message to reach earth from an expedition to Venus, the closest planet to earth, and another 5.76 minutes for the answer to return. The scientists would, however be able to help the interplanetary expedition with their mid-course maneuver corrections, both going and returning. In this case they would have more time to send their advice.

DANGER AHEAD

By John Rankin

Melvin saw the quaint little house, sitting quiet by itself among the hills in the lonely countryside. His boyish features broke into a radiant smile and he turned to his graying, spectacled uncle at the wheel.

"Is this it, Uncle Jake? This is the place you been telling me about?"

Uncle Jake nodded. "This is it, son," he said with a buoyant smile, and guided the station wagon around a chukhole in the narrow, twisting road. "This is the little place I've been waiting to show you and it's all ours now. You like it?"

"Whew!" Melvin whistled softly. "This is the greatest! You hinted all along that you had a big surprise waiting for me when I graduated from grade school. You buy it maybe?"

Uncle Jake stopped the station wagon in the drive and looked at Melvin. "Yes, son, I bought it for a hunting and fishing place," he explained with a trace of pride in his voice. "A little weekend hideaway where we can come to get away from the hurry-scurry of city life and live the way nature intended that people live. Where the air is free and where a man can feast his eyes on the beauty left by nature instead of tons of brick and steel and cluttered up highways."

"Don't Forget Me"

In the back seat a large black dog with long wavy hair stood up, tail wagging, ears alert and a look in his big brown eyes that seemed to say, "Hey! Don't leave me out of this. I'm in on this deal too, you know."

Uncle Jake looked around to put a hand on the big dog's head and tousled him playfully. "So you want to get into the act too, eh Gomer?" he said with a wide grin, and opened the back door and let him out.

Melvin followed Uncle Jake into the house and saw that it was as quaint and old-fashioned on the inside as it was out. Furniture of an earlier day still stood where the last occupants had left it. An ancient dust covered piano rested against a wall facing an open fireplace in the living room and a wood-burning stove stood in the kitchen.

Uncle Jake opened doors and windows and felt the gentle summer breeze on his face. Then he stood in the doorway and saw the shadows of early evening mingled with tiny rays of sunlight settle over the room like silvery streaks of light in a blue sky lake.

Carefree Life

"Ah! This is the life, son," he said with feeling. "When I see an old abandoned house I think of the happy, carefree folks that lived here. Where songs and laughter rang through every room, and the air was filled with the smell of home-made bread fresh from the oven of a wood-burning stove in the kitchen."

"You're making me hungry, Uncle Jake," Melvin said with a laugh. "Are going to have a little supper pretty soon, maybe?"

Uncle Jake gave him a playful pat on the shoulder. "You bet we are son," he said with a nodding grin. "Run down to the spring for a bucket of water while I bring the supplies from the car and supper will be on the table in a jiffy."

Let's Go Birding

Pileated Woodpecker Babies

By Emma Mae Leonhard

When we were fortunate enough to be introduced to a Pileated Woodpecker's nest near Jacksonville, we were then eager to learn whether the pair would succeed in raising a family. Mr. Baptist again came to our rescue; he saw the babies and the parents feeding them. He suggested that if we would wait for awhile, say 45 minutes or so, we might be able to enjoy the same experience.

We accepted the invitation. Pat Ward was the first one to try his luck. He waited in vain for an hour and a half; nothing happened to indicate that there were baby woodpeckers in existence, nor adults either. Pat had to leave in order to make his Illinois College class.

Two more of us and a guest from Marathon, Florida, decided to try our luck. Since our last visit when we had seen only one adult bird, the leaves on the surrounding trees had grown large and dense. We inched patiently to the right and to the left, trying to catch a glimpse of the concealed large hole in the dead tree. As the wind swayed the branches, we occasionally snatched a brief view of the entrance to the nest.

Complaining Notes

At least we found a spot on the bank of the Mauvaisterre that opened up a constant view of the hole. We stood there, practically glued to the place, with our binoculars focused upon the entrance to catch any evidence of birds in the hole. After half an hour we caught some complaining notes from the excavation in the dead tree. Surely they were calls from hungry birds, but we waited for ten more minutes before anything appeared in the hole. Then a large head with red on it was outlined there and disappeared. Another head without red performed the same way. These babies looked to us almost old enough to fly, but they seemed satisfied just to gratify their curiosity by a fleeting glance at the outside world.

Characteristic Call

About this time two Red-headed Woodpeckers announced their approach with their characteristic "queooh, querr." Louder calls came from the depth of the excavation. One Red-head flew to the hole. We don't know whether it was merely curious about the juvenile inhabitants or solicitous about the hungry babies' welfare or perhaps teasing them just for sport.

Whatever the reason, it brought results. The heads of two baby Pileated Woodpeckers protruded farther from the hole; the begging notes were louder. Then the begging stopped; the heads withdrew silently at the orders from the adult Pileated somewhere to our right.

Immediately all sounds stopped. We waited patiently for another quarter of an hour, for we were determined to see the feeding process, and we succeeded.

Before our eyes appeared an adult Pileated Woodpecker at the base of the home tree. From what direction it had approached we were not aware. It flew up to the edge of the hole.

Two heads again appeared, and loud demands came from their mouths. The adult sat there for a short time. Then it pumped food into the open bill of the baby farthest from it. In turn, the second baby fed in the same way, by the method of regurgitation. And we at long last had seen the feeding.

THE CIRCUS

This was going to be Tommy's most exciting day because a circus was coming.

The tiger truck had a flat tire. The man showed the tiger. One tiger named Roger got loose. Two men went after him. The tiger killed a man in the fog. It got so thick the other man came back.

"I will go back in the morning," he said. He trailed the tracks until he saw the tiger sleeping. He threw the net on the tiger and got him back in the cage.

Here is another unusual bridge problem for you. Look over all the cards and see if you can figure out how South managed to go down three tricks at his four-spade contract without playing giveaway bridge.

The answer lies in a whimsical but highly effective lead by West. He opened his king of hearts!

South liked the lead. Obviously West didn't have a club to lead to his partner and it seemed certain the heart lead was from a suit headed by the king and queen.

South could see no way to avoid the eventual loss of three club tricks unless he could get to discard a club on dummy's third heart. That was not likely but no other play appeared to offer any chance for success.

South allowed the king of hearts to hold. West led a second heart and the jack was played from dummy. East produced a look of utter astonishment.

East cashed three high clubs while West jettisoned his last three hearts. Then East led his third heart. South ruffed with a high trump to establish West's ten as the sixth trick for the defense.

The statement that West's lead of the king of hearts was whimsical is mild indeed. We didn't see the hand and while it was reported to us by a reliable authority, we wonder about it.

Q—You, South, are the dealer. You hold:
♠ A K 8 7 ♥ A 3 2 ♦ K J 5 ♣ A 8 4

What is your opening bid?
A—Bid one club. This is not the short club or the forcing club but merely the utility club used in preference to bidding a four-card major suit. If your partner passes, you won't be missing a game and you can play at one club. If he bids, you can show your great strength conveniently.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid one club, the next hand passes, and your partner bids one diamond. What do you do now?

Salesmen Have Hard, Weary Job

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — He and she said if anyone came to the door I was to sic the dog on them. Here, Tighe! Sic 'em, boy, sic 'em!

His shoulders sag, his feet hurt, the handkerchief he mops his sunburned face with is already wet with sweat. The leather case he switches from one aching arm to another feels like it weighs a ton. He manages a cheery smile at every household, but he knows he'll get 10 rebuffs for every welcome. Those are the odds he is fighting. But maybe if he climbs enough steps, rings enough bells, raps his knuckles raw on enough portals, he'll earn a little more than he did the day before.

Ten years from now he may be a captain of industry. Or waiting his turn in a breadline. But right now he's just making a living the hard way.

He's just another door-to-door salesman, a guy on the way up or on the way down. And if his potential customers are a bit weary of seeing the likes of him, here are a few typical remarks he is weary of hearing from the likes of them.

"Whatever you're selling, we don't want any."
"I'd open the door, but I don't want to let any flies in."
"You look so hot and tired, young man, that I'd invite you in for a glass of lemonade, but my husband is the jealous type — and anyway I'm fresh out of lemons."

"Try the lady next door. She'll buy anything. But I warn you — if you take a check from her it'll probably bounce."

"I'll thank you to take your wares elsewhere. You know what you did with all that pounding on my front door? You woke up my baby — and I just spent an hour and a half rocking her to sleep."

"What are you selling? An art encyclopedia? No thank you, we've already got enough things around here just collecting dust."

"I'm not in the market for anything right now, but if you're giving away free samples I'll take a half dozen."

"My mother is not at home. You've got a nerve. I ought to call the police."
"For a minute there you had me scared. I thought you were the guy from my draft board."

"You mean you got me to come all the way up here from the basement, where I was doing the laundry, just to try to sell me a book of pictures?"

The Jacksonville Colt League All-Star team played almost unbelievably poor in the field, committing 16 errors and dropped a 9-1 game to Western Illinois to be eliminated in the Colt District at Nichols Park, Friday night.

Lincolnland outlasted Western Illinois in the first game of the evening, 11-8.

The local outfit booted 16 times in the first five innings of Friday's game, giving them a total of 25 in the two games in the tournament. Jacksonville managed only three hits off three hurlers, being held to a pair of scratch hits in Thursday's 7-4 loss to Lincolnland.

Western Illinois outlasted Lincolnland in the first game, 11-8, but the eventual winners took advantage of 13 walks by the losers, six of which were turned into runs.

Lincolnland led 6-1 until Western Illinois exploded for four runs in the bottom of the fourth.

The eventual winners iced the contest with a four-run outburst in the sixth, on the strength of four free passes, three wild pitches and a Western Illinois boot.

Jacksonville's count of errors by innings ran four, five, one, four and two before the locals got through the sixth without a miscue.

JOCKEY SUSPENDED

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Luis Flores, 24-year-old Panamanian jockey, was suspended indefinitely Friday by the stewards of Monmouth Park for allegedly using an electrical device on a horse Thursday.

The stewards, who said Flores admitted using the device on Irish Charger in the sixth race, also referred the case to the New Jersey State Racing Commission with the recommendation that the jockey's license be revoked.

Irish Charger won the race but was disqualified when Al Hudson, one of the patrol judges, found a small battery on the inside of the waistband of the jockey's trousers.

ALL-STAR EXCUSED

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Bill Clay, 195-pound defensive back from the University of Mississippi, was excused from the College All-Star football camp Friday because of an injured right knee suffered in the All-American game at Atlanta July 9.

Clay, who reported there Thursday, was sent back to the camp of the Washington Redskins, who previously had the rookie under doctor's care.

The All-Stars, preparing for their Aug. 5 game with the champion Green Bay Packers of the National Football League, earlier lost Gale Gillingham, 250-pound Minnesota lineman, and quarterback Randy Johnson of Texas A&I because of injuries.

PRO TENNIS STAR Rod Laver explains to his wife about the racket he's in. The Lavers were recently married. Rod is the leading money winner on the pro circuit.

RIGHT AT HOME is Lee Evans of San Jose City College, the national 440-yard champion. Evans is a 19-year-old freshman.

AROUND THE TURN at Monmouth Park come Arrow King and Not Behaving. Both horses faded at the end and Moss Neck came on to win.

Commit 16 Errors

Local Colt Stars Eliminated By 9-1

By BUFORD GREEN

The Jacksonville Colt League All-Star team played almost unbelievably poor in the field, committing 16 errors and dropped a 9-1 game to Western Illinois to be eliminated in the Colt District at Nichols Park, Friday night.

Lincolnland outlasted Western Illinois in the first game of the evening, 11-8.

The local outfit booted 16 times in the first five innings of Friday's game, giving them a total of 25 in the two games in the tournament. Jacksonville managed only three hits off three hurlers, being held to a pair of scratch hits in Thursday's 7-4 loss to Lincolnland.

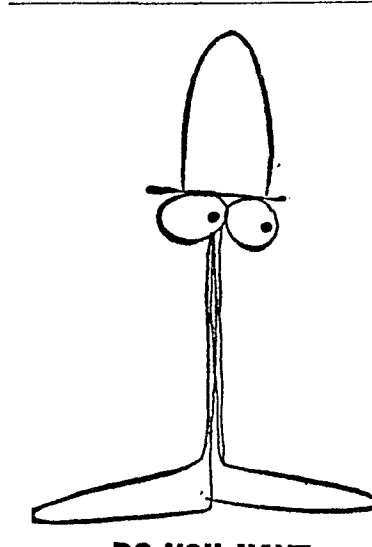

Western Illinois outfit Lincolnland in the first game, 11-8, but the eventual winners took advantage of 13 walks by the losers, six of which were turned into runs.

Lincolnland led 6-1 until Western Illinois exploded for four runs in the bottom of the fourth.

Swift Reported To Have Tumor

DETROIT (AP) — Bob Swift, third base coach who became acting manager of the Detroit Tigers when Charlie Dressen suffered a heart attack, was reported Friday to have a malignant lung tumor.

Swift, 51, has been a patient at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit since July 14.

The hospital announced discovery of the tumor, following extensive examinations. Swift entered the hospital with food poisoning.

The Tigers said Swift will not be able to return to uniform this season.

Frank Skaff, first base coach who stepped in as acting manager when Swift was hospitalized, will continue in charge of the team, said James A. Campbell, Tigers' general manager.

A Tigers' spokesman said Swift's tumor is of a type which can be treated. He said treatments will be started when Swift has sufficiently recovered from the food poisoning.

Swift took over the Detroit helm May 16 when Dressen suffered his second heart attack in little more than a year.
